BY BILL KING.
Associated Press Sports Writer.
BOSTON, Oct. 31.—(P)—The powerful blows that flattened Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott gave W. L. "Young" Stribling, battling pride of Georgia, a three-round technical knockout over the rugged K. O. Christner, of Akron, Ohio, in what was to have been a 10-round bout at the Boston arena tonight.

Stribling fought a cool-headed battle with his courageous rival and came out of a clinch in the third to land Christner's head with a heavy two-fisted barrage. One of these blows, a sizzling left hook, split Christner's nose and the injury appeared so serious that Referee Johnny Brassil, pulled him away from the southerner and assisted him to his corner. Then the official raised Stribling's arm in token of victory.

Starts Out Ahead.
Christner tried to be aggressive, but most of his savage rushes were generally stopped by his opponent's sharp shooting left. On the few occasions that the veteran ex-rubber worker did succeed in tearing inside of his skillful opponent's guard, he was only able to land weak body blows.

Stribling opened the bout by circling cautiously about Christner and then flicked his head with a light left. This infuriated the aging Meyer, who has given many of the outstanding American heavyweights a warm eye, and he rushed for close quarters, where he landed his most effective blows. Stribling, however, stepped aside quickly and scored a heavy left hook to the head. Meyer fell into a clinch and after the break took two more such blows, the last one a direct hit flush on his left eye.

This organ was closing fast when they came together for the second and the two lefts that Stribling ripped over made it sightless. Christner then missed with a wild right and Stribling put across another left hook and followed with a resounding right to the body. Though the blow appeared to have terrific force, Christner gave but slight evidence of the shock. The Georgian worked with extreme deliberation and every blow he struck landed cleanly. Just as the second ended he shook Meyer with a heavy left to the body and left hook to the jaw.

Christner Badly Beaten.
Meyer was a battered battler when he answered the third and his appearance probably convinced Stribling that it was time to shift into high gear. Stribling hanged over a left hook to the jaw, then ripped a right to the same vicinity and dropped down to the clinch. After the break Stribling worked his opponent into the center of the ring and pounded him high with

2,000 Baptist Students Gather Here From All Parts of the South for Quadrennial Conference

Pictured above is a part of the delegation of more than 2,000 to the second quadrennial All-Southern Baptist students' conference being held at the First Baptist church. With state standards identifying the various delegations from 17 states and the District of Columbia, the conference resembled a major political convention Friday morning as the photograph was taken on the steps and lawn of the church. All of the young men and women in attendance are students of universities or colleges in the states over which the department of Southern Baptist student work has jurisdiction, and the general purpose of the conference is to give the students an opportunity to get together and discuss problems, privileges and opportunities of the younger generation of Baptists. Delegates from Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia are in Atlanta for the conference, which began Thursday night and which will come to a close Sunday afternoon, and many of the state delegations may be identified by their banners shown in the above photograph. One of the features of the present quadrennial conference, leaders pointed out Friday, is the intense interest being given to the sessions by the young men and women, who, instead of taking advantage of sightseeing tours and other forms of entertainment offered by Atlanta as in the case of the usual large gathering, are attending each of the meetings, which are held morning, afternoon and night during the convention. A reception at the Biltmore hotel, however, following the regular evening session, will break the "strictly business" monotony of the conference for the students.

OFFICIAL IS FOUND TO HAVE INTEREST IN IMPROVED PARK

Payment of $10 Per Day to Three Registrars Is
Also Subjected to Criticism in Presentments.

STEWART DENIES
ANY IRREGULARITY

Commissioner Says Any Transaction in Which
He Was Interested Was

Paving projects and resultant improvements to property owned by a company in which Commissioner Walter B. Stewart was interested "appeared to be irregular" but were in no direct violation of the law, the Fulton county grand jury reported Friday in its presentments to Judge John D. Humphries, of the superior court.

The action of Commissioner Stewart in obtaining an interest in undeveloped property and allegedly using his office as a commissioner to aid in its improvement was scored by the grand jury in its presentments as was the payment by the commission of salaries of $10 a day each to the three members of the board of registrars and the board's alleged failure to provide adequately for the physical comforts of the more than 1,000 men and women confined in county convict camps.

The grand jury reported that it "deplored the actions of individuals and groups of individuals" who had disseminated propaganda concerning alleged violations of the law in the operations and management of the county by the commissioners and other public officials and declared that such accusations should be stopped unless they can be supported by concrete facts.

Commissioner Stewart said Friday night that until he had had an opportunity to read the grand jury presentments he would have no statement to make. He did declare, however, that any transaction in which he had been interested "was entirely regular and above-board."

Though the grand jury made no statement saying it believed it had completed the county investigation no recommendation for continuing the part of the incoming grand jury was made.

No Violations Found.
In its report to Judge Humphries, which was warmly praised by the judge, the grand jury asserted that it had sought by every known means at its command and at the command of Solicitor-General John A. Boykin to find evidence showing any violations of the law on the part of members of the commission and other officials and employees of the county and had been able to find none.

Operator Arrested.

Mangled beyond recognition, the body of a young girl was extricated from beneath the wheels of an inbound College Park-East Point trolley car on Lee street between Morgan street and Gannaway Crossing shortly after 11 o'clock Friday night, after she is said to have jumped under the wheels of the car in an effort to avoid being struck by a speeding motorist.

After Joy Ride.

ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, Oct. 31.—(P)—The emperor of Ethiopia, Ras Tafari, has clipped the wings of his "Black Eagle," the one-time Harlem negro, "Colonel" Herbert Julian—and ordered him out of the country in disgrace.

His majesty's wrath was aroused because Julian took the royal air-plane into the air against orders and descended suddenly and unintentionally in a mass almost at the potential feet. "Colonel" Julian was not hurt, but the plane was a wreck; and it was a plane of which Ras Tafari was particularly proud.

POLITICAL WORLD EYES PROHIBITION AS VOTING NEARS

Signs of Long and Bitter
Congressional Battle on Issue Grow More Unmistakable.

BY EDWARD J. DUFFY,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Signs of preparations to challenge and to defend constitutional prohibition in a mighty way multiply as the political campaigns whip to culmination.

Politicians and organizations at conflict on the issue, so energetic today in state after state, look ahead to the time when even more strenuous efforts must be exerted. They watch each other's moves with keen interest, and the issues drawn as between members of each at odds.

In republican and democratic ranks alike the agitation has run from absolute support of the national law to modification for manufacture of light beer and wines, and on to taking the amendment from the constitution, letting the states deal with the problem.

But this campaign has led to an opinion in political ranks that differences are crystallizing into sentiment for and against repeal.

On Tuesday, Illinois and Rhode Island voters express themselves on the question by referendum. Massachusetts ballots on the proposal to repeal the state enforcement act. Elsewhere, especially in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, repeal is one of the issues drawn as between democratic senatorial candidates in its favor and republican nominees against.

The way the votes fall in those cases certainly will heighten the chances for intense debate in congress, both during the approaching short session and when the new congress meets a year from December. Another factor expected to further crystallization of sentiment on the repeal question will be the report of President Hoover's law enforcement commission.

The commission meets again the day after election to arrange its findings from the long study of prohibition conditions. The report is expected to be made before January.

"Crisp fall weather of the seasonable sort is the order of the day," Mr. von Herrmann said.

Dough-Faced, Noisy Atlanta Makes Merry on Halloween

Atlantan Wins Medal
For Heroic Rescue

For one of the most unusual acts of heroism on record, the Carnegie hero medal fund commission has awarded the highest medal in its gift to an Atlantan, it became known Friday night.

The commission made known the award in an announcement which set forth that the Atlantan, Willis D. McAfee, 32, had been adjudged deserving of the coveted bronze lifesaving medal for his act in imperiling his own life in an effort to prevent a fellow worker, John H. Smith, 29, from falling to death at Clearwater, Fla., on November 24, 1927.

Smith, working atop a 24-foot pole, was shocked into unconsciousness when he came in contact with a high tension wire, and toppled head first from his perch.

McAfee, his foreman, ran to the pole base, thrust his arms upward and caught Smith, whose head struck McAfee's face. The impact hurled McAfee to the roadway, unconscious, and both men were seriously injured, but Smith's fall was broken and his life saved.

Back-Firing Automobiles
Add to General Hubbub
As Great Crowds Throng
Downtown Streets.

BY WILLIAM O. KEY, JR.

If a hellam of noise and capricious antics of a populace masked in hideous and ludicrous disguises still hold good, as it was supposed to in tribal ceremonies, as an exorciser of hobgoblins and other evil spirits, Atlanta today should be free of all wraiths, pixies, ghosts, phantoms and lemons.

Up and down Peachtree and Whitehall streets Friday night a dough-faced, racket-making Atlanta moved as it has moved for years on Halloween. Blowing tin horns, clanking wheels, shouting wisecracks at one another en passant, snacking convenient coat-tails with burlesque slapsticks, pulling off false faces, and—a brand-new one, so far as the effect was concerned—a cannonading of automobile backfiring.

PEA FOR LEADER MADE BY LEAVELL

Frank H. Leavell, secretary of the B. Y. P. U. in Georgia for nine years, and no student secretary of the Baptist student department of the Sunday school board at Nashville, made a plea for a "Lindbergh of religion" in an address before the 2,000 students attending the All-Southern Baptist Students' conference at the First Baptist church Friday night.

The student delegates representing denominational and state schools of 17 southern states heard Mr. Leavell climax the second day of the conference by a plea for a "Lindbergh of religion" in an address before the 2,000 students attending the All-Southern Baptist Students' conference at the First Baptist church Friday night.

The program Friday night was presided over by R. P. Downes, of the Theological Seminary of Fort Worth, Texas, and S. D. Gordon, of New York city, author of many books on Bible study, led the devotional service. This was followed by a solo by Miss Lulia Mosgovoy, native Russian, a student of Blue Mountain College, Blue Mountain, Miss.

John Lake, a native of South Carolina, who spent 26 years among the lepers of China as a missionary, was the last speaker on the program, taking as his topic, "Tapping the Springs of Divine Power." Known as the "Paul of his generation" because of his speaking ability, Mr. Lake held the vast audience spellbound while he recounted some of his personal ex-

November Football

November is here and with it comes those mighty battles on the gridiron—when the undefeated face their real tests. This afternoon the eyes of the nation will be focused on many gridirons and The Constitution will be there to describe these games.

ED DANFORTH, sports editor, is at Savannah to cover the Georgia-Florida game.

RALPH MCGILL is with Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets at Chapel Hill and will picture the game in Sunday's Constitution.

WALTER WILKES will describe the Oglethorpe-Furman game at Hermance field. This is the only varsity game in Atlanta today.

GRANTLAND RICE will cover the Yale-Dartmouth battle for The Constitution.

LEWIS HAWKINS will write the annual Tech Freshman-Auburn Freshman game at Grant field today.

In addition to the foregoing expert coverage, The Constitution will have complete Associated Press service with Alan J. Gould and Brian Bell heading the list of writers who will report games from all sections.

IRELAND'S OLDEST CLAN
HEAD DIES IN BELFAST

BEELFAST, Ireland, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The O'Mahoney, of Kerry, head of the County Kerry branch of the oldest clan in Ireland, died today at his home in Wicklow. He was 80.

The original chief of the famous clan married Sainha, the daughter of Brian Boru, high king of the Irish, who drove the Danes from Erin in a battle near Dublin on Good Friday in the year 1014. The O'Mahoney, who never forgot the glory of his name, wore the Irish kilt to the end of his days.

His full name was Pierce Charles Delaney O'Mahoney.

DECEMBER-MAY UNION HALTED BY FATHER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP)—A 65-year-old Virginia mountaineer and his 16-year-old sweetheart were arrested today as fugitives from justice when they attempted to obtain a marriage license.

A telegram from Sheriff William Snodgrass, of Buckingham county, Virginia, asked that the couple—John Martin Childress, of New Canton, and Pearl M. Newton, of Wealthia—be detained for him. A detective was waiting when they reached the marriage license bureau.

Childress was held in a police station cell while the girl was taken to the house of detention. Police said Sheriff Snodgrass and the bride-to-be's father, Joseph M. Newton, were on their way to Washington for the couple.

JOHN H. JACKSON MOVED TO TOWER

John H. Jackson, arrested by police Wednesday on telegraphic advices from Mississippi authorities in connection with his son's alleged embezzlement of $72,000 from a Laurel (Miss.) bank, will be given a hearing before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith today or Monday, it was announced Friday by E. S. Chastain, assistant district attorney.

Mr. Chastain said that a federal complaint from Mississippi authorities has been received by federal officers here, and Jackson Friday was transferred from the city jail to Fulton Tower to await the hearing before Commissioner Griffith. H. Edward Jackson, a son of the man held here, is being held in Los Angeles, Cal., pending extradition to Laurel.

RADIO EQUALIZATION URGED BY ROBINSON

Commissioner Asks Facilities for Under-Quota States.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Allocation of radio broadcasting facilities to under-quota states on the same basis used previously for other parts of the country despite recent recommendations of the engineering division was recommended today by Commissioner Robinson.

In submitting a resolution to the commission, Robinson joined Commissioners Starbuck and Lafont in suggesting plans for equalization of radio facilities first as to zones and then as to states on a population basis. Robinson emphasized, however, that it was not his purpose to withdraw facilities from over-quota states, but to permit facilities to be added to under-quota states. He suggested that low powered stations in under-quota areas be permitted to increase their facilities. The engineering division of the commission recently recommended that further allocation be based on a mileage separation basis for stations. Robinson said at present "there are some very wide discrepancies, as for instance, Pennsylvania being approximately eight units under quota and Illinois 11 units over quota."

EVANGELIST JAILED FOR COURT CONTEMPT

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 31.—(AP) Roy E. Davis, evangelist and singer, won and lost in the federal court here today. A Mann act indictment pending against him was filed away, but he was sentenced to serve ten days in jail for contempt of court. The first contempt sentence was 30 hours on the charge that he instigated applause in the courtroom but when he denied the charge the court raised the sentence to 10 days.

Five parishioners of the Pentecost 1 Baptist church, all friends of Davis, were fined $5 each for participating in the demonstration.

Havana Soon To Lose
Municipal Identity

HAVANA, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Havana, one of the oldest cities in the new world, is to lose its municipal identity to become a federal district much like the District of Columbia. Already following closely the pattern of government in the United States, Cuba on February 24, 1931, will lend new emphasis to the parallel.

Legislation for abolition of the municipality and the creation in its place of a federal or central district was adopted by the Cuban congress May 20, 1928, at the same time that a number of other amendments to the constitution were enacted.

Convict Escapes.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Oct. 31.—(AP)—John Foster, negro convict, escaped from a state prison camp near Morrison, the prison bureau reported today. Foster was serving a 10-year sentence from Alachua county on a charge of assault with intent to murder, records showed.

FINEST FOR FINE BAKING

WHITE LILY FLOUR

Couldn't be finer

if it were weighed out on a Jeweler's Scale!

The White Lily Flour you get in a sack from the grocer is pure, fine, and light as a feather. It is made so by the devoted attention of the millers—by their careful work and long experience. If White Lily were so costly that the grocer had to weigh it out to you like gold on a jeweler's scale, it couldn't be a finer baking flour than it is now. White Lily is made of the finest winter wheat, from the most delicate part of each wheat kernel. It is sifted through hand-woven Tyrolean silk. That is why there is something in White Lily not found in other flour—a difference that shows in the baking. Today you can buy White Lily Flour for the same price that an ordinary flour cost a year ago. Your grocer has it in both plain and self-rising.

Put Employes on Books,
He Says.Only 2,695 of the 4,117 employes of the borough of Atlanta are listed on the tax digests, and 684 of that number have been added since Councilman George Lyle, of the eleventh ward, inaugurated a fight to force them to pay taxes August 1, tax assessors informed Mr. Lyle Friday.
At the present time 1,120 are not on the books and 293 are living outside the limits. When Mr. Lyle launched his war on the municipally-employed tax dodgers, only 2,011 were on the tax digests, the report shows.

Speaking to a meeting of the state Anti-Saloon League here, the chief executive declared:
"I sometimes go to the moving pictures and almost invariably somewhere in the picture there is a display of drunken revelry or hand-out liquor. On some occasions it is so suggestive that I have found myself wanting to join in and take a drink."KNOXVILLE MOTORISTS

Mr. Mayson declared that if any property can be found, either in Georgia or Florida, he will attach it, and that if not he will attempt to find headquarters and officials on whom he can serve the contemplated suit.

TAX ASSOCIATION TO MEET NOV. 14

Revisionists Called To Gather Here by General Counsel O. A. Park.

The full membership of the Georgia Tax Revision Association has been called to meet in Atlanta on November 14, Judge Orville A. Park, special counsel, announced Friday afternoon following a brief session of the association's executive committee.

While the principal purpose of the November 14 meeting is to receive and consider the report of the tax survey which has just been completed by Dr. Harley L. Lutz, professor of public finance of Princeton University, the full membership meeting will also consider the report of the tax revision during the next two years.

Dr. Lutz's report, it was explained, is in the hands of the printer and soon will be submitted to Governor Hardman where, it is anticipated by those who have followed the activities of the association and the developments growing out of the state deficit, the conclusions of the Princeton expert will have an important bearing on whether or not the executive calls a special session of the general assembly this winter.

Formation of Association. Employment of Dr. Lutz to make the tax survey, and of Scoville, Miller & Co., New York business engineers, to make a financial and organization survey of the state government by the governor last summer preceded, by a few days, the formation of the tax revision association under the leadership of Miller S. Bell, Milledgeville banker.

Experts representing the Scoville, Miller & Co. firm, have been in Atlanta studying the state's administrative setup and a detailed report of this organization is also expected to be in the hands of Governor Hardman at an early date.

Because of the possibility that future tax revision in the state will require the submission to the legislature of a constitutional amendment, it is regarded likely that the tax revision association will continue to function after receiving the Lutz report and regardless of whether a special session of the legislature is convened by the governor.

Meanwhile, several state officials, leading newspapers and many private citizens have announced opposition to the Lankford constitutional amendment, one of thirteen which will be voted on in Georgia next Tuesday.

Submitted by Same Assembly. In view of the previous history of amendments to the Georgia constitution, special efforts are being made to acquaint voters with the fact that this amendment was submitted to the people by the same legislative body that passed the Boykin income tax law and, at the time, was designed to become operative in the event the income tax law was held to be unconstitutional. The supreme court upheld its validity.

The full membership of the Tax Revision Association is expected to include the business leaders of the state, will hear a report of the Lutz survey and, in all probability, take some definite action with respect to an endorsement of the recommendations made to Governor Hardman by the Princeton economist.

Members of the executive committee of the association are: Miller S. Bell, president; J. K. Murphy and W. T. Anderson, of Macon; John N. Graham, of Rome; C. R. Fitzpatrick, of Warrenton; T. M. Cunningham, of Savannah; T. K. Glenn, Preston S. Arkwright and Ronald Ransom, of Atlanta. Ernest Campbell, secretary and Robert Gregg, treasurer of the association.

GUARD FOUND GUILTY IN CONVICT'S DEATH

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Gordon Watkins, one of three convict camp officials indicted for manslaughter in connection with the death of Willie Bellamy, negro, a prisoner, was found guilty today of assault with a deadly weapon.

The other two defendants, Vance Mangum and Swann Council, were acquitted. Presiding Judge Horie Smith did not immediately pass sentence.

Bellamy died of heat prostration accelerated, medical witnesses testified, by confinement in a "cave box." The latter was identified as a small wooden structure just large enough to hold one man. It was used to punish an unruly prisoner.

Intellectual Ulcer, Jim Reed Dubs Hyde

BENTON, Mo., Oct. 31.—(AP)—The three great protagonists of the Hoover administration are Curt Mellon and Hyde, "but the loudest and most noisome of these is Arthur," former Senator James A. Reed said in an address before a democratic gathering here tonight. "Ordinarily," he said, "it would be a waste of time to take notice of his (Hyde's) meanderings; a debate of governmental policies with Hyde is necessarily fruitless. One gains nothing by a debate with an intellectual ulcer. But Hyde is a member of the cabinet and as the voice of the Hoover administration crying in the wilderness—hence not because of the man, but because of the master I mention him."

WILD OIL WELL IMPERILS CITY

Army of Five Hundred Men Guard Oklahoma City Against Fire.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 31.—(AP)—An army of a half thousand men, military and civil, guarded Oklahoma City tonight against the menace of a potential fire dragon—a gigantic wild oil well—that roared at the city's edge.

The units of the Oklahoma national guard were called to assist civil authorities in protecting life and property in the vicinity of the No. 1 C. E. Stout well, which since last night has been hurling prodigious quantities of oil and gas into the air less than a mile from the main business district.

All activities in the immediate threatened area on the southeast outskirts of the wholesale district were suspended.

Householders were warned not to light fires and residents nearest the well—mostly negroes—were ordered to vacate their homes.

Six schools considered to be menaced by low hanging clouds of gas were closed for the day, making a holiday for more than 2,500 pupils.

Trains were barred from tracks near the well because of the danger of their engine fires igniting the gas. Automobiles and trucks were forbidden entrance into the danger zone.

The well, estimated to have a daily production of 60,000 barrels of oil and 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas, lost some last night when sand cut its connections.

Like the "wild Mary" Sudik, famous outlaw that defied control for 11 days last spring, ordinary methods failed and a special device known as a "Christmas Tree," a heavy steel conical bonnet, was being forged to drop over the welling maw of the well.

The guardsmen entered the area wearing wartime steel helmets and slickers as protection from the rain of oil. They were ordered out by Assistant General Charles Barrett after an appeal had been made by Sheriff Stanley Rogers for military aid to supplement the efforts of his staff and city fire and police forces.

The well is just outside the city limits but much closer to the heart of the city than the greater part of the residence districts. It is on the south bank of the north Canadian river which bisects Oklahoma City.

Since motor trucks were not permitted in the area, household goods of the few who moved from the section were transported in wagons drawn over oil slicked streets by mules or horses.

DOUBLE SLAYING STAGED IN CABARET

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The musicians in an East Fourth street cabaret were packing up their instruments early today, half a dozen patrons still lingered at their tables when the door was flung open and a volley of pistol shots poured into the place.

Charles Greco, 28, and Lawrence Viscardi, 29, two of the guests, fell dead with bullets in their heads and bodies. Floyd Mitchell, 28, a negro entertainer, was wounded in the side. No motive for the shooting was apparent.

MOROCCANS HOLD FLIERS FOR RANSOM

CASABLANCA, Morocco, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Hostile Moroccan tribesmen are holding two French aviators for ransom, payment of which two others of the plane's crew are trying to arrange.

The plane was forced down in extreme southwestern Morocco after departure Monday from Agadir with mail from South Africa.

The tribesmen seized the plane and two of the crew, the other two escaping with part of the mail.

Spirit of Fun and Frolic Marks Atlanta's Halloween

Whether they are holding this policeman back from "joining in" the celebration of Halloween or whether they are deterring him from exercising his official duties to thwart some prankish Halloween plans is rather a mystery, but in the picture above Officer Olin Williams (center) seems to have his arms (and legs) full. On the left he is being held by Mima Lee White, while Louise White on the right does her bit of interfering. Little Cassie Hardman (left) has Officer Williams' right leg while George Thompson has the other.

Cross Sections of Life In Gate City of South

The Washington child health and protection conference November 19-22 will discuss reports by Dr. James Robert McCon of Emory, Dr. William A. Mulhern, of the University of Georgia; Dr. Joe P. Bowdoin, of the state board of health; Miss Rhoda Kaufman, welfare expert, and J. L. Graham, of the state department of education, it was announced Friday.

Salvation Army cadets, their staff instructors, and others from the Southern Training College on Luckie street, will visit the Federal penitentiary Sunday to have charge of services there. The work will be in charge of Major Norman S. Marshall. Sunday night they will conduct services at the Wesley Memorial church.

Henry S. Cohen, president of the Citizens Bank of Gainesville, Ga., will arrive in Atlanta today, preparatory to assuming his duties as president of the City Savings Bank and Trust Company Monday. The City Bank and Trust Company, formerly the City Savings Bank and Trust Company, will move November 15 from the Western Union building to 10 North Pryor street.

Pasig Lair No. 1, Military Order of the Serpent, will hold a special meeting at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the City Auditorium. The public is invited. A special program including orchestra music will be presented.

Thomas J. Smith, a policeman, said Friday he will file with Judge Howard of Fulton superior court, today an application for an injunction to prevent the board of pension commissioners from paying pensions to pensioners from the department as long as it refused his plea for compensation. Smith claims to have been totally disabled riding a motorcycle on a call. His second application is to be considered by the pension board November 15.

Mrs. L. C. Phillips, captain of a valley ball team, overturned when their car was struck by a truck at Glenn and Pulliam street August 5. Friday sued for $50,000, the Upchurch Packing Company, alleged owners of the truck. Mrs. A. F. Herrin, driver of the car, also filed suit for $25,000. Mrs. Herrin's husband also entered a petition claiming damages to the extent of $5,000 as a result of loss of his wife's services.

J. R. Wilson, traffic officer for school children at Park drive and Virginia avenue, was commended Friday.

Six houses were badly damaged Friday morning by fire, which had been of incendiary origin, which started in a vacant one-story frame house at 829 Beckwith street, S. W. Five neighboring houses, occupied by negroes, were damaged. A vacant one-story house at 326 Inman street, S. W., and a plant owned by the American Paper Stock Company, at 250 Grant street, were also damaged by flames Friday morning.

Judge Warner Hill's Bible Class of the St. Mark's Methodist church will bring to a close Sunday its membership contest with the class of Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, which began in October. A large attendance is expected.

Mrs. W. D. Schick, 131 Forrest avenue, Mrs. George C. Purcell, 420 North Boulevard, were slightly injured when the car driven by the former was struck by another driven by Mrs. L. L. Gillsredt, 1272 Oakdale drive, at Piedmont and Harris streets late Friday afternoon. Both were treated at Grady hospital and returned to their homes. No charges were preferred.

Atlanta Federal Business Association will meet at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce building to discuss the Community Chest campaign. John M. Slaton, Jr., director of the veterans' bureau, is president of the association.

Peter S. Twitty, state game and fish commissioner, today will be in Savannah on business connected with the tidewater department of the commission.

In an opinion to the state game and fish department Friday, Assistant Attorney-General T. R. Gress ruled that fox hunting on posted land without consent of the owner constitutes trespassing, and that posting of the land is equivalent to fencing.

Georgia Appalachian Trail Club will be organized at a meeting tonight in Zimarr's Mountain Lodge, Dahlburg.

Jinx Follows Senator In Summer of Rest

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP)—It wasn't a campaign year for Senator Pittman, of Nevada, and he looked forward to some rest this summer from the long grind of congress—but he now claims a "hard luck" role that will overshadow that of any of his campaigning colleagues.

First, the Pittman residence here burned down twice. Then Mrs. Pittman went out recently to inspect work on the new home. She fell and broke a leg. Senator Pittman rushed east from a committee hearing to be with Mrs. Pittman. Getting out of an airplane upon his arrival a loose board on the platform threw him and he broke a bone in the leg. He is now in the same hospital, with Mrs. Pittman.

ATLANTA MAKES MERRY HALLOWEEN

strove to outdo one another in make-up. Little boys dressed up in girls' dresses; big girls walked up and down in sailmen's white pants, like sluggish, waddling steers; white faces were blushed with burnt oak, and dark faces were smeared with white powder. Everybody wanted to be somebody, else.

Drunks and Near-Drunks. Near the Piedmont hotel on Peachtree two young fellows in swallowtail coats were trying to make people believe they were drunk. Half a block north two drunks were trying to make a con they were sober. In both cases the result was unsuccessful.

Street scene: Long pink-and-pasty noses prevail. A man with a natural mustache wearing a nose as big as a squash; another man with a real squishlike nose wearing a false mustache. A hilarious passer-by is crying out noses. Everything is all right until he tries to pull one off that was grown that way. A man resembling Paul Whiteman wears a Spanish get-up. With a scarlet sash of cheesecloth slung over his shoulder and a yellow girdle that slowly but surely is losing its grip on his trousers. Oh, well! He can use the scrap in an emergency.

A touch of drama in the yellowish glare of the street lamps. A scrawny woman, with a life of fragility written on her face, leads three small children in home-made costumes and surprised doughfaces. Ungloved and threadbare in the sharp wind, she passes before a horn vendor as the youngsters implore her to buy them one; look in a worn leather purse thoughtfully, then passes on, the kids whimpering.

Bombardment by Back-Fires. One thing, though, about this Halloween. It certainly will spell the doom of fireworks sales hereafter.

Never before has Atlanta heard such a bombardment of automobile back-firing. Motorists apparently have learned that 21-cent gasoline will explode just as loudly in mufflers as the high-priced grades. Wait until they examine those mufflers, though, suggested Captain Grover C. Fain, helping direct traffic in front of the Piedmont. He said he'd never heard the like, but repeated that it sure would go hard on the flippers.

But everything was going lovely, he said. Not a disorderly complaint all along the street, though at police headquarters a lady called up to ask for a special police guard.

"What for?" the desk sergeant wanted to know. "Last year they cut my hose all to pieces," the woman said.

"Your what?"

"My hose—my garden hose," the lady explained. "I want somebody stick out to guard my garden hose."

Guarding the garden hose, opined the sergeant, would make a nice title for a song, but it was one Sam Hill of a duty for a cop on a cold night like Halloween.

DE VALERA ASKS IRISH TO ADOPT HOMESPIN

DUBLIN, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Irish republicans, borrowing from the program of Indian nationalists, have proposed at a party conference to start an Irish "homespin" cloth movement.

James De Valera, head of the hospital, telling of Gann's marked improvement.

C. J. Bowen, city building inspector, is one of the borough's oldest employees in point of continuous service. He has held the post since 1907.

C. E. Kauffman, veteran bridge engineer of the borough of Atlanta, has two hobbies—work and smoking, a good cigar. When engaged in an important piece of work, he spends many hours at night on the job, and is regarded as one of the outstanding bridge authorities in this section of the country. He has held the position for about 20 years.

Mayor I. N. Ragsdale Friday approved a measure extending the time for payment of borough taxes until November 15, thus giving Atlantans until that time to avoid the penalty of having his tax, issued against them.

Attaches of the borough tax assessor's office Friday were engaged in preparing for the rush attendant on extending the time for tax payment with a belief that hundreds of those who have not yet paid their taxes will do so at once to avoid penalties.

Health officers of north Georgia will meet at 10 o'clock this morning at the state board of health for a conference on general health matters.

Oakland City Baptist church will ordain the following new deacons at 11 o'clock services Sunday morning: T. D. Mann, Ralph W. Mitchell, George Boyd and Merriam Keith. Communion will be administered Sunday night by the entire board of deacons under G. Everett Millican, chairman.

Mrs. Una Roberts Lawrence, mission station secretary of the home mission board of the Southern Baptist convention, will address the T. E. L. class of the Druid Hills Baptist church at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning. Mrs. Lawrence is here from St. Louis to represent the home mission board at the Baptist student conference.

Jefferson Street Methodist church will bring its revival services to a close Sunday with the Rev. Ralph C. Crosby, pastor-evangelist of the South Georgia Methodist church, in charge. Services will be conducted at 11 o'clock Sunday morning and at 7 o'clock Sunday night. L. L. Dixon will direct singing.

Fellowship service will be conducted at the Highway chapel, 332 West Peachtree street, at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon by Adjutant and Mrs. Sydney Cox and Captain Briggs Dingman. Night services will be conducted by Ralph E. Stewart at 7:30 o'clock.

Emory University library has been given a valuable collection of books on southern life and history by the state division of the U. D. C. In addition, the library was presented with a collection of letters, pamphlets, and books on Stone Mountain, by the Atlanta chapter.

Uncle Remus branch of the Carnegie library will move Monday to new quarters at 633 Peoples street and will be open daily from 1:30 to 6 o'clock except on Saturdays when the hours will be from 9 to 12. Miss Eleanor Harrison is librarian.

Morland Avenue Baptist church will continue revival services through next week with the Rev. T. T. Davis, pastor, in charge. J. N. Reed will direct the singing. Next Monday a special "family service" will be conducted and a prize given to the family having the largest number present.

CUBA VOTES TODAY ON NEW CONGRESS

Million Citizens Expected at Polls—No Disturbances Believed Possible.

HAVANA, Oct. 31.—(AP)—One of the bitterest political struggles in the history of this young republic will come to a close here tomorrow when upwards of a million voters will name their choice of candidates for both houses of congress.

More than 75 per cent of all eligible voters have registered and a ballot is expected in each of the six provinces. Havana province, with one-tenth of the total population of Cuba, is expected to send 80 per cent of its vote, to the polls.

Fifty-eight representatives and 8 members of the electoral college are to be named from the three lists of popular conservatives and liberals. The latter are expected to gain an overwhelming majority.

The long, bitter fight of the nationalist union to have the elections set aside until next April, allowing time for its organization into a recognized party, tonight appeared to have been a fruitless one and unless there are unexpected moves on their part there is every indication that tomorrow will be uneventful.

The central electoral board which, starting at midnight tonight and functioning until midnight tomorrow, has complete control of the island, including the national army of 12,000, is confident that the numerous preparations which have been made against emergencies will not be needed.

Soldiers have been garissoned at strategic points throughout the island and all business houses and places of amusement will remain closed.

President Machado tonight received reports of tranquil conditions from several hundred communities in various parts of Cuba.

DRY ARDOR GROWS, ALCOHOL FOE INSISTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism, said in a statement, "The statement has been no reversal of public opinion on prohibition, but rather a continuously growing support of the dry policy."

The statement was issued in answer to the announcement last Tuesday by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment that 371 replies to 823 questionnaires it sent to congressional candidates to ascertain their prohibitive views showed 265 for and 59 against repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

This announcement, Cherrington said, demonstrated that "over two-thirds and possibly four-fifths of the candidates for the house and the senate are probably supporters of prohibition."

'WINK' DAVIS HEADS FRESHMEN AT TECH Two Atlanta boys and one from Macon came out on top in the recent freshman class elections at Georgia Tech, results of which were made public Friday in the Technique, student publication.

Successful candidates were "Wink" Davis, of Atlanta, president; "Chip" Robert, Jr., of 137 Fifteenth street, N. E., vice president, and Tom Peeler, of Macon, secretary and treasurer.

HARRIS SEES SOUTH AS NEWSPRINT CENTER

Senator Describes Progress Made by Experiments Which He Inaugurated.

The government is actively engaged in experiments to make newsprint from slash pine and other trees of the species, Senator William J. Harris said in a statement here Friday.

The senator, left for Cedar town where he will cast his ballot in the general election.

Newsprint experiments by the government are being made under appropriations secured by himself, the senator said, over a period of five years. This year's appropriation, he said, totaled $25,000.

Senator Harris produced a telegram which he had received from the government's forest products laboratory at Madison, Wis. "The laboratory wire said," the senator explained, "that they have already developed a modification of the sulphate pulping process and a method of chlorination bleaching which combined produced strong white paper pulp from loblolly, long leaf and slash pine."

"The resulting pulp appears suitable for the majority of papers not utilizing bleached or unbleached sulphite as made from northern conifers."

"The laboratory informed me that experiments had demonstrated the possibility of applying the sulphite process to southern gums for book and writing papers. They have produced satisfactory print paper from gum."

"I am informed that at Madison they are working now on pulping all sapwood slash pine by the sulphite process and production of ground-wood from both pine and gum, with newsprint as their objective."

Senator Harris said that there was no question in the minds of New England paper manufacturers that the future newsprint industry lies in the south and that some day these huge paper mills would be moved to Georgia and other commonwealths in Dixie.

TRAIL OF BANDITS IS LOST AT HOTEL

Three bandits who robbed cash registers and customers Thursday night at the Biltmore pharmacy, occupying a corner of the Biltmore hotel, of more than $100, after raising a pharmacy at 139 Forrest avenue, were traced by police to a hotel on Spring street Friday, several hours after the trio had checked out.

Investigation revealed that the bandits had registered at the hotel shortly after midnight, giving Macon as their address. A pocketbook stolen from M. D. Seashore at the Biltmore pharmacy was found in the vacant room.

GIRL IS IMPROVED AFTER AUTO CRASH

Injured early Friday morning when the car in which she was returning home from a "preliminary" Halloween party overturned on the Roswell road, Miss Sara Milton, of 127 East Merritt avenue, Friday night was reported to be out of danger at the private hospital to which she was taken. The driver and two other passengers of the car, who were slightly hurt, were at their homes after first-aid treatment at the hospital. They were Tommy Wilkins, 21, of 16 Seventeenth street, driver; Miss Mary Meadows, 16, of 127 East Merritt avenue; and Julian Evans, 22, of a North avenue address.

TAX AMENDMENT TRUCE IS REACHED

Borough and Fulton county officials Friday reached a truce over the disputed proposed constitutional amendment authorizing the commissioners to levy special taxes to establish fire, water and sewer systems and parks.

Mayor-elect James L. Key headed the committee representing the borough in its protest, and following the presentation of the case, the commissioners passed a resolution agreeing not to levy the tax in the event the amendment is passed unless an agreement is reached between borough heads and the commission.

Commissioners declared the purpose of the amendment was to authorize taxes for out of the borough communities, not in other boroughs included in Atlanta.

WRIGHT IS INDICTED IN BROTHER'S DEATH

The final indictment to be returned by the retiring September-October grand jury which was discharged Friday by Judge John D. Humphries, of the Fulton superior court, was a true bill accusing Roy Wright of the murder of his brother, Will Wright, who was shot and killed at the Wright home in the north side of the county last week.

Roy Wright, who was arrested by the county police within an hour after the slaying, is being held without bond in the Fulton tower. Will Wright was killed when he was struck by shot from a shotgun in the hands of his brother when he attempted to interfere and make peace between Roy and another brother.

BRASWELL PETITION UNDER ADVISEMENT

Judge John B. Hutcheson, of Stone Mountain circuit, Friday night had under advisement the petition of W. H. Braswell to restrain ordinaries of Newton, Rockdale and DeKalb counties from placing on the general election ballot the name of John Wesley Weeks, democratic nominee for state senator from the 35th district.

In an answer filed by intervention, Weeks contended that as state senator he is a quasi-state officer, notice to the three ordinaries meets the requirements of the law and notice to the secretary of state is not necessary, contrary to Braswell's contention.

Industrial School.

Receipts of the State Industrial college at Savannah, an institution for negroes, were $94,651.21 for the year ended June 30, and disbursements were $94,307.95, Tom Wisdom, state auditor, reported Friday. Non-income receipts included loans of $3,094.42, and non-expense disbursements included loans paid of $4,000. The balance left June 30 was $5,615.97. The institution has a surplus of $38,583.39, which includes $37,044.10 of unpaid 1929 and 1930 appropriations.

To Repeat Pageant.

The choir of Big Bethel A. M. E. church will repeat the concert and religious pageant "Heaven Bound" at the church, corner Auburn avenue and Butler street, Friday night, November 7. It was announced Friday. It will be the last performance for several months, and a special section of seats will be reserved for white persons.

BULGARIA WELCOMES

CZAR BORIS AND BRIDE

Royal Couple Are Rewed in Bulgarian Orthodox Church.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 31.—(P)—Czar Boris, III, of Bulgaria, today brought home his Italian bride, Queen Ioanna, to the capital of their kingdom and both received in Sofia cathedral the "nuptial benediction" of the holy synod of the Bulgarian orthodox church.

Sofia's day of festivity and rejoicing was clouded only by foreign reports that seven shots had been fired at the royal train as it brought the king and queen up from the Black sea port of Bourgas.

The reports were denied, and the people wholeheartedly entered into the national welcome for the sovereigns, climaxing it tonight with a monster display of fireworks and the booming of cannons.

Apparently happy but obviously tired, the 22-year-old queen watched the people making merry in the streets this evening. There was no work done in Sofia today, nor will there be tomorrow, which is the feast of Saint Ivan Rilsky. This saint's day is considered also the feast of the king, since her name is the feminized form of this patron saint's.

The ceremony in Sofia cathedral was a solemnization rite for the people of Bulgaria.

The national rather than the sectarian character of it was emphasized by the attendance of the chief rabbi of Bulgaria and the chief mufti, religious leader of the Mohammedans of Bulgaria.

The exchange of rings and certain other ritual details of the orthodox service were omitted, but the fact that the crowns of marriage were held over the heads of the king and queen, and that they drank out of the same communion chalice and both kissed the gospel afterward, was accepted by Bulgarians as compliance with the essentials of the orthodox rite.

In the course of this ceremony, the young queen pointedly made the sign of the cross in Catholic fashion. Czar Boris made it in the orthodox manner.

CAZORT POSTS NEW $500 BOND

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 31.—(P)—Lieutenant Governor Lee Cazort and Ernest Dowd surrendered at the sheriff's office here today and made new bonds of $500 each on charges of violating the corrupt practices act, contained in indictments returned by a Phillips county grand jury early this week.

The two had been under bond since last August, when informations were filed against them, charging that they attempted to bribe County Judge John Sheffield, of Helena, to withdraw from the democratic gubernatorial race.

Their surrender today followed receipt by Sheriff R. A. Cook, of warrants under the grand jury indictments.

Cazort has announced he will demand an early trial, the date for which has not been set.

SOUTH SOON TO KNOW SOLDIERS' HOME SITE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(P)—Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, said tonight the federal board of hospitalization had set up a subcommittee to make a study of various sites that have been offered in the south for a soldiers' home.

The subcommittee consists of Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming, of the bureau of public health; M. W. Ireland, surgeon general of the army; and George H. Wood, president of the National Home for Disabled Soldiers. The group will visit the various sites within the next week or two.

Several sites have been offered in North Carolina and other southern states.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.

I felt rather inclined to disagree with her. I do not think I was clever. It is my firm opinion that no servant could be a worse one than Mary. Any change, I consider, would have been a change for the better.

But I like to please Griselda. I detailed the heads of Mary's grievance. "How like Lettice," said Dennis. "She couldn't have left that yellow heart of hers on Wednesday. She was wearing it for tennis on Thursday."

"That seems to me highly probable," I said. "She never knows where she's left anything," said Dennis, with a kind of affectionate pride and admiration that I felt entirely uncalled for. "She loses about a dozen things every day."

"A remarkably attractive trait," I observed.

"Any sarcasm missed Dennis. "She is attractive," he said, with a deep sigh. "People always proposing to her—she told me so."

"They must be illicit proposals if they're made to her down here," I remarked. "We haven't got a bachelor in the place."

"There's Dr. Stone," said Griselda, her eyes dancing. "I've seen him."

"He asked her to come and see the barrow the other day," I admitted.

"Of course he did," said Griselda. "Lettice is attractive, Len. Even bald-headed archaeologists feel it."

"Lots of S. A.," said Dennis sagely.

"And yet Lawrence Rodding is completely untouched by Lettice's charm," Griselda, however, explained that with the air of one who knew she was right.

"Lawrence has got lots of S. A. himself. That kind always likes the—how shall I put it—the Quaker type. Very restrained and diffident. The kind of woman whom everybody calls cold. I think Anne is the only woman who could ever hold Lawrence."

"I don't think they'll ever tire of each other. All the same, I think he's been rather stupid in one way. He's rather made up of Lettice, you know. I don't think he ever dreamed she cared—"

"—he's awfully modest in some ways—but I have a feeling she does."

"She can't hear him," said Dennis positively. "She told me."

"I have never seen anything like the pitying silence with which Griselda received this remark."

"I went into my study. There was, to my fancy, still a rather eerie feeling in the room. I knew that I must get over this. Once give in to that feeling and I should probably never use the study again. I walked thoughtfully over to the writing table. Here Protheroe had sat, red faced, heavily self-righteous, and here, in a moment of time, he was standing, an enemy had stood."

"And so—no more Protheroe..."

"Here was the pen his fingers had held. On the floor was a faint dark stain—the rug had been sent to the cleaners, but the blood had soaked through. I shivered."

"I can't use this room," I said aloud. "I can't use it."

"Then my eye was caught by something—a mere speck of bright blue. I bent down. Between the floor and the desk I saw a small object. I picked it up."

"I was standing staring at it in the palm of my hand when Griselda came in."

"I forgot to tell you, Len. Miss Marple wants us to go over tonight after dinner. To attend the nephew. She's afraid of his being dull. I said we'd go."

"Very well, my dear."

"What are you looking at?"

"Nothing."

"I closed my hand and, looking at my wife, observed:

"If you don't amuse Master Raymond West, my dear, he must be very hard to please."

"My wife said: "Don't be ridiculous, Len," and turned pink."

"She went out again and I unlocked my hand."

"In the palm of my hand was a blue lapis lazuli earring set in seed pearls. It was rather an unusual jewel and I knew very well where I had seen it last."

"I cannot say that I have at any time a great admiration for Mr. Raymond West. He is, I know, supposed to be a brilliant novelist and has made quite a name as a poet. His poems have no capital letters in them, which is, I believe, the essence of modernity. His books are about unpleasant people leading lives of surpassing dullness.

He has a tolerant affection of "Aunt Jane" whom he alludes to in her presence as a "survivor."

She listens to his talk with a flattering interest and if there is sometimes an amused twinkle in her eye I am sure he never notices it.

He fastened on Griselda at once with flattering abruptness. They discussed modern plays and from there went on to modern schemes of decoration. Griselda alludes to laugh at Raymond West, but she is, I think, susceptible to his conversation.

During my (dull) conversation with Miss Marple, I heard at intervals the reiterated "buried as you are down here."

It began at last to irritate me. I said suddenly:

"I suppose you consider us very much out of things down here?"

Raymond West waved his cigarette. "I regard St. Mary Mead," he said authoritatively, "as a stagnant pool."

He looked at us, prepared for resentment at his statement, but somewhat, I think to his chagrin, no one displayed annoyance.

"That is really not a very good simile, dear Raymond," said Miss Marple briskly. "Nothing, I believe, is so full of life under the microscope as a drop of water from a stagnant pool."

"Life of a kind," admitted the novelist.

"It's all much the same kind, really isn't it?" said Miss Marple.

"You compare yourself to a denizen of a stagnant pool, Aunt Jane?"

"My dear, you said something of the sort in your last book, I remember."

No clever young man likes having his works quoted against himself. Raymond West was no exception.

"The West was entirely different," he snapped.

"Life is, after all, very much the same everywhere," said Miss Marple in her bland voice. "Getting born, you know, and growing up—and coming into contact with other people—getting jostled—and then marriage and more life."

"And finally death," said Raymond West. "And not death with a death certificate always. Death in life."

"Talking of death," said Griselda. "You know we've had a murder here?"

Raymond West waved murder away with his cigarette. "He said, 'I take no interest in it.'"

That statement did not take me in for a moment. They say all the world loves a lover—apply that saying to murder and you have an even more infallible truth. No one can fail to be interested in a murder. Simple people like Griselda and myself can admit the fact, but any one like Raymond West has to pretend to be bored at any rate for the first five minutes.

Miss Marple, however, gave her nephew away by remarking:

"Raymond and I have been discussing nothing else all through dinner."

"I take a great interest in all the local news," said Raymond, hastily. He smiled benignly and tolerantly at Miss Marple.

"Have you a theory, Mr. West?" said Griselda.

"Logically," said Raymond West, again flourishing his cigarette. "Only one person could have killed Protheroe."

"Yes?" said Griselda.

"The vicar," said Raymond, and pointed an accusing finger at me.

I gasped.

"Of course," he reassured me. "I know you didn't do it. Life is never what it should be. But think of the drama—the fitness—church warden murdered in the vicar's study by the vicar. Delicious."

"And the motive?" I inquired.

Continued Monday.

HALLOWEEN BALLS AT SOCIAL CLUBS ENGAGE SOCIETY

Debutantes of '30 Make Bow To Society at Piedmont Club

Several hundred members of Atlanta's fashionable society assembled last evening at the Piedmont Driving Club for the annual Halloween ball, and with that gesture, the social season officially opened. The ballroom was effectively decorated with Halloween novelties, and on the windows, the doors, suspended from the ceiling and hung between the pillars black cats, goblins, pumpkins, jack o' lanterns, skeletons, red devils and witches, typified the spirit of Halloween. At the base of each pillar were black cat novelties and pumpkins tied with orange and black ribbon. The tables were placed around the edges of the ballroom and after dinner were removed to admit of dancing. Each table was decorated with orange and black, and novelty favors marked the guests' places, the favors including whistles, which hats, masks, pumpkins, horns and noise-makers. At the entrance of the ballroom cornstalks were banded, and rising from each mound was the head of an electrically illuminated red devil, peering inquisitively from the cornstalks. A man-moth pumpkin some four feet high, illuminated by a golden light, was suspended from the ceiling in the center of the ballroom and was suggestive of the harvest season.

Debutantes and Escorts.

The debutantes made their first formal appearance in society last evening, carrying out the annual custom of being officially presented at the Driving Club's Halloween ball. The debs with their escorts, the cynosure of all eyes, entered the ballroom and marched by spirited music to the far eastern end of the room, taking their seats at the table adorned in the center with yellow chrysanthemums and autumn leaves. Halloween favors marked each place and included paper hats, horns, whistles and noise-makers. Debutantes and their escorts included Miss Hannah Sterne with William Derry and George Walsh, Miss Elizabeth Spalding with Francis Gilbert and Inman Brandon, Miss Laura Hoke with Roff Sims and Frank Harold, Miss Margaret Arnold with Sam Weyman and Gresham McCullough, Miss Frances Barwell with Don Tillar and Ragan Jones, Miss Sarah De Saussure with Sam Tupper, Jr., and Marion Wellsyager, Miss Mary Cox Bryan with Wright Bryan and Frank Daniel, Miss Eugenia Bridges with Casper Johnson and Neville Reed, Miss Alice Ferrell with Francis Willis and Austell Thornton, Miss Eleanor Johnson with Joel Hunter and Lawson Kiser, Miss Julia Meador with Kells Boland and Fred Minnin, Miss Sarah Meador with James Carlton and Lewis Little, Miss Jean Nutting with Tom Daniel, Jr., and Earl Blackwell, Miss Mary Phillips Orme with Joseph Selby and Ralph Pharr, Miss Caroline Paulin with William Minnick and Hal Smith, Miss Marion Peacock with Tommie Tupper and Ralph Williams, Miss Phoebe Rhett with Lamar Ellis and Stephen Barnett, Miss Margaret Steger with Knowles Davis and Lieutenant William Biddle, Miss Frances Steger with Henry Johnson, Jr., and Lewis Rucker, Miss Eugenia Candler with Woody Coleman and James Morrow, Miss Mary Goldard with Weston Hamilton and Guy Woolford, Miss Harriett Westlake, of New York, with Frank Inman and Eddie Sterne, Miss Elaine Patterson, of Memphis, Tenn., with Robert Pegram III and Ed Gurr.

Debutantes' Costumes.

Miss Hannah Sterne, president of the Debutants' Club, who led the procession of beauty and charm as the debs entered the ballroom, chose for the occasion a striking costume of coral-colored tulle, built on straight lines with a long flaring skirt and featuring a smart bustle effect in the back. Miss Sterne's escort, Mr. Derry, wore the smartest of French costumes developed in softest white satin with sweeping long lines. Miss Goldard was gowned in white crepe richly embroidered in rhinestones.

Miss Steger wore turquoise blue crepe with a high waistline and a flared skirt. Her sister, Miss Frances Steger, wore peach-colored satin made on straight lines. Miss Nutting was gowned in shell pink satin embroidered in rhinestones. Her guest, Miss Henriette Boyer, of Hawkinsville, wore peach-colored tulle, a striking detail of the gown being a huge pleated bow of electric blue tulle. Her satin slippers matched the bow in shade.

Greenish lines featured the costume worn by Miss Candler, the material being green broadened metal cloth, with elaborate trimmings of silver cloth. Miss De Saussure was gowned in peach blossom tulle, the new lines built on the high waist and the long skirt, being expressed in the becoming model.

Aquamarine satin was employed in the lovely French gown worn by Miss Hoke, the straight lines being especially becoming. A combination of egg shell velvet and silver sequins formed the gown worn by Miss Julia Meador, the velvet fashioning the skirt and the bodice featuring the sequins.

Straight lines and a long flowing skirt developed in pale green satin made the costume of Miss Sarah Meador, the bodice being sewn with gold sequins. Miss Orme's gown was of white crepe Elizabeth, the neckline bordered with crystals and with facings of turquoise blue.

Miss Paulin chose for the ball a striking gown of peach-colored satin of softest quality, the only trimming being the facings of turquoise blue satin. Cinnamon satin developed along straight lines and combined with sequins in the same tones fashioned the gown worn by Miss Spalding.

Miss Peacock was gowned in sun-tan crepe trimmed with a narrow belt of topaz stones. She wore satin pumps to match with topaz buckles. Miss Bryan wore a striking gown of fish-colored satin, the bodice of which was trimmed in rhinestones.

Miss Gress, of Jacksonville, Fla., who is the charming guest of Miss Eugenia Bridges, wore a French model of shell pink satin, smartly fashioned with high waistline and a very long skirt and featuring an extreme low-cut neckline in the back. Miss Bridges wore white tulle, the bodice elaborately embroidered in emerald green and silver sequins, the skirt made very long and full in flared effect.

Miss Eleanor Johnson wore a Hattie Carnegie model of turquoise blue satin, fashioned very long and on extremely slenderizing lines, which were especially becoming to her. Miss Patterson, of Memphis, Tenn., who is the guest of Miss Eleanor Johnson, was gowned in ivory-tinted satin, made simply along fashionable lines and untrimmed.

Miss Margaret Arnold's costume was shell pink tulle posed over a slip of fragile Alencon lace, the skirt made very long and full, and the bodice was sewn with silver sequins. Pink velvet fashioned the gown worn by Miss Frances Barwell, the skirt cut circular and very full. The bodice was trimmed in tiny rhinestones and followed the princess lines.

Miss Ferrell was gowned in blue lace made over blue satin, elaborately trimmed with rhinestones and she wore rhinestone accessories. Miss Rhett wore a gown of egg-shell satin combined with black satin, cut low in the back and trimmed with rhinestones, and her slippers and accessories were of black.

According to custom, the debutantes carried similar bouquets, featuring graceful armfuls of gorgeous Maitland Butterfly roses, tied with long streamers of shell pink satin ribbons. The flowers formed a fitting addition to the ranks of beauty and aristocracy represented by the debutantes. Taking their places at the flower-decked table, they placed their bouquets on satin books fastened to the backs of the chairs, the flowers forming a solid phalanx of floral beauty.

Officers' Table.

Seated at the officers' table, which was artistically decorated with vases of orange and yellow chrysanthemums and dahlias, were the officers of the club and their wives and the members of the board of directors and their wives. Included in this group were Major John S. Cohen, president of the Piedmont Driving Club, and Mrs. Cohen; Dr. Floyd W. McEae, vice president of the club, and Mrs. McEae; and the board of directors and their wives, including Dr. and Mrs. Dan Elkin, Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Troutman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Paine and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Carter, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Cam Dorsey, Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Shallenberger, Major and Mrs. William Healey and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Garlington were together. Mr. and Mrs. Spotswood Grant, Mr. and Mrs. John Hardisty, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Byrley and Jack Byrley were together.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Harper, Miss Sue Brown Sterne, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Lewis and Edwin Sterne, Jr., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Sterne.

Bowie Martin entertained in compliance to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown Whitehead, Jr., who have recently come to Atlanta to make their home.

A congenial group dining together included Mrs. Anne Bates Walsh, Mrs. Olie McKenzie Black, Howard Holden, Lauren Foreman and Charles Shepard.

Others Entertaining.

AUDITOR ABSOLVES SUSPECTED THEFT.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 31.—(AP)—An auditor testified in court here today that not only does James P. Jones, being tried for embezzlement while treasurer of the Virginia Methodist Orphanage, not owe the orphanage anything, but that the orphanage owes Jones $24,101.52.

The testimony of the witness, J. M. Culbreth, followed closely that of F. L. Worcester, another auditor, that Jones had failed to account for more than $37,000 of orphanage funds, Jones, a member of the state legislature, is charged with embezzlement and larceny totaling $97,976.40.

"At the close of business on August 6, 1930, the trustees of the Virginia conference orphanage of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, owed Mr. James P. Jones $24,101.52," the witness said.

He explained that this amount included two settlements made by Jones with the trustees, one on July 1, 1930, in which he paid them $14,680.87, and another on August 6 in which arrangements were made for a payment to the trustees of $23,017.78. Worcester had testified that a shortage of $37,976.40 remained in spite of the settlements.

The completion of the organization of women who will handle the American Legion Auxiliary's sale of memorial poppies Tuesday, November 11, has been announced by Mrs. L. J. Bombardier, president of the local auxiliary unit. Approximately 1,000 women will be engaged in the work of the sale this year and each will be assigned a specific part of the work according to organization plans. Every worker will be a volunteer, donating her services to make "Poppy Day" in Atlanta a success.

The poppy sale will be under the charge of Mrs. Arthur H. Hazard, a general chairman. She will be assisted by district chairmen who will have charge of the sale in the different sections of the city and by several special chairmen who will handle different phases of the poppy activity. Each of the chairmen will have committees of active workers to aid them with the tasks assigned to them.

The sponsors for the sale in Atlanta as announced by Mrs. Arthur Hazard are: Mesdames L. G. Hardman, Hugh V. Dorsey, Clifford Walker, A. McD. Wilson, L. J. Bombardier, Asa Warren, Candler, Alonzo Richardson, Thornton M. Fincher, Samuel Inman, John K. Otley, Louis J. Elsas, Robert F. Maddox, Clark Howell, Sr., Preston Arkwright, Sr., Gordon G. Mrs. Candler Honors Her Granddaughter.

DECATUR, Ga., Oct. 31.—Mrs. Nellie S. Candler entertained 50 young people at a party last evening at her home on Candler street in celebration of the birthday of her granddaughter, Miss Nell Scott Earhman.

Jack-o'-lanterns lighted the garden and a chimney was built outdoors, at which weiners and marshmallows were roasted. Bobbing for apples, fortune telling and Halloween games added to the merriment of the young guests. Later in the evening dancing was enjoyed.

Assisting Mrs. Candler were her daughters, Mrs. Henry Earhman and Miss Nell Candler.

Mrs. Jordan Wins Sweepstakes in Barnesville Show

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Oct. 31.—A flower show held by the Garden Club at the Woman's Club house Wednesday afternoon, and displays, which came from town and county, were the finest ever made here. There are numbers of enthusiastic flower growers in the county, and Barnesville is famed for its beautiful gardens and blossoms. Mrs. J. M. Rogers, the president of the Garden Club, and Mrs. Joe H. Smith acted as chairmen of the show. Judges included Robert R. Heckman, of Macon, and several visiting experts.

Mrs. W. C. Jordan, sweepstakes winner, is known all over the state for her magnificent flowers of every variety. She specializes on dahlias and chrysanthemums, and in the exhibit today had great quantities of both. She is famed for her artistry in arrangement, and she aided in this part of the show. Rev. Marvin Williams, who won second place in general, and many first prizes, is also a specialist along the line of dahlias and chrysanthemums. His chrysanthemums were the finest in the show, and he won first prize for a collection.

Mrs. Ross Tucker Gives Luncheon.

Chase Hunter Weds Miss Webb Of Washington State, in Chicago

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 31.—The marriage of Miss Pearl Webb, of Wenatchee, Wash., and Chase P. Hunter, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hunter, of Atlanta, Ga., was solemnized at 6 o'clock this evening at the Fourth Presbyterian church before a group of close friends and relatives of the bride and groom. Immediately after the ceremony A. P. Benham entertained at dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter.

The bride and groom will reside in Chicago, where the latter is connected with the Coca-Cola Company, having come to Chicago from Atlanta. He is a graduate of the Georgia School of Technology, having graduated with the 1927 class. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. D. Webb, of Wenatchee, Wash., and is a young woman of exquisite brunette beauty. She is a graduate of the Washington state university. Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were the parents of the young bridal couple.

Mrs. Uri To Wed Major H. H. Deiber.

Interest of the civilian and military contingents centers around the wedding to be solemnized today at the post chapel at Fort McPherson, when Mrs. Elmo Veitch Uri becomes the bride of Major Harry E. Deiber, with Chaplain Joseph O. Ensrud performing the impressive ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and close friends.

Mrs. Uri, who has made her home in Atlanta for the past two years, and has a wide circle of friends, will be a charming addition to the social life of the military circles.

Major Deiber is the commanding officer of the dental corps stationed at Fort McPherson and is one of the most popular officers of the military contingent. Following a wedding trip Major Deiber and his bride will make their home on the officers' row at thearrison.

Science Combines

Food Value and Flavor in the PERFECT MARGARINE

What are the things that go to make the finest margarine you can put on your table or use in your kitchen?

Well, first: the finest materials in the market.

Then: the best scientific brains. And then: the finest scientific equipment.

But, after all, margarine is something we eat. After science has done its utmost, the final test of margarine perfection is TASTE.

So after every other test is made—the makers of Nucoa apply the test of taste to every batch of Nucoa that leaves their plants, keeping the flavor up to the standard they created so that you may always enjoy Nucoa quality on your table and in your kitchen.

NUCOA SCORES HIGHEST IN HOT-TOAST TEST

The Hot-Toast Test is Your Personal
Margarine Test

Take a piece of hot toast and spread liberally with Nucoa. Notice how the good, wholesome elements of this delicacy begin to register on the taste buds... those wonderful little taste-centers at the base of the tongue. Notice the sweet and appetizing satisfaction... the clean body and "bloom" of flavor. The Hot-Toast Test will prove to you that Nucoa is UNLIKE any other margarine.

This test of flavor is available to everybody in the hot-toast test. It will reveal to your sense of taste what an exquisite food Nucoa is. What a vast difference there is in margarine quality and delicacy.

It will convince you that the few cents a pound more which you pay for Nucoa is the best investment you can possibly make.

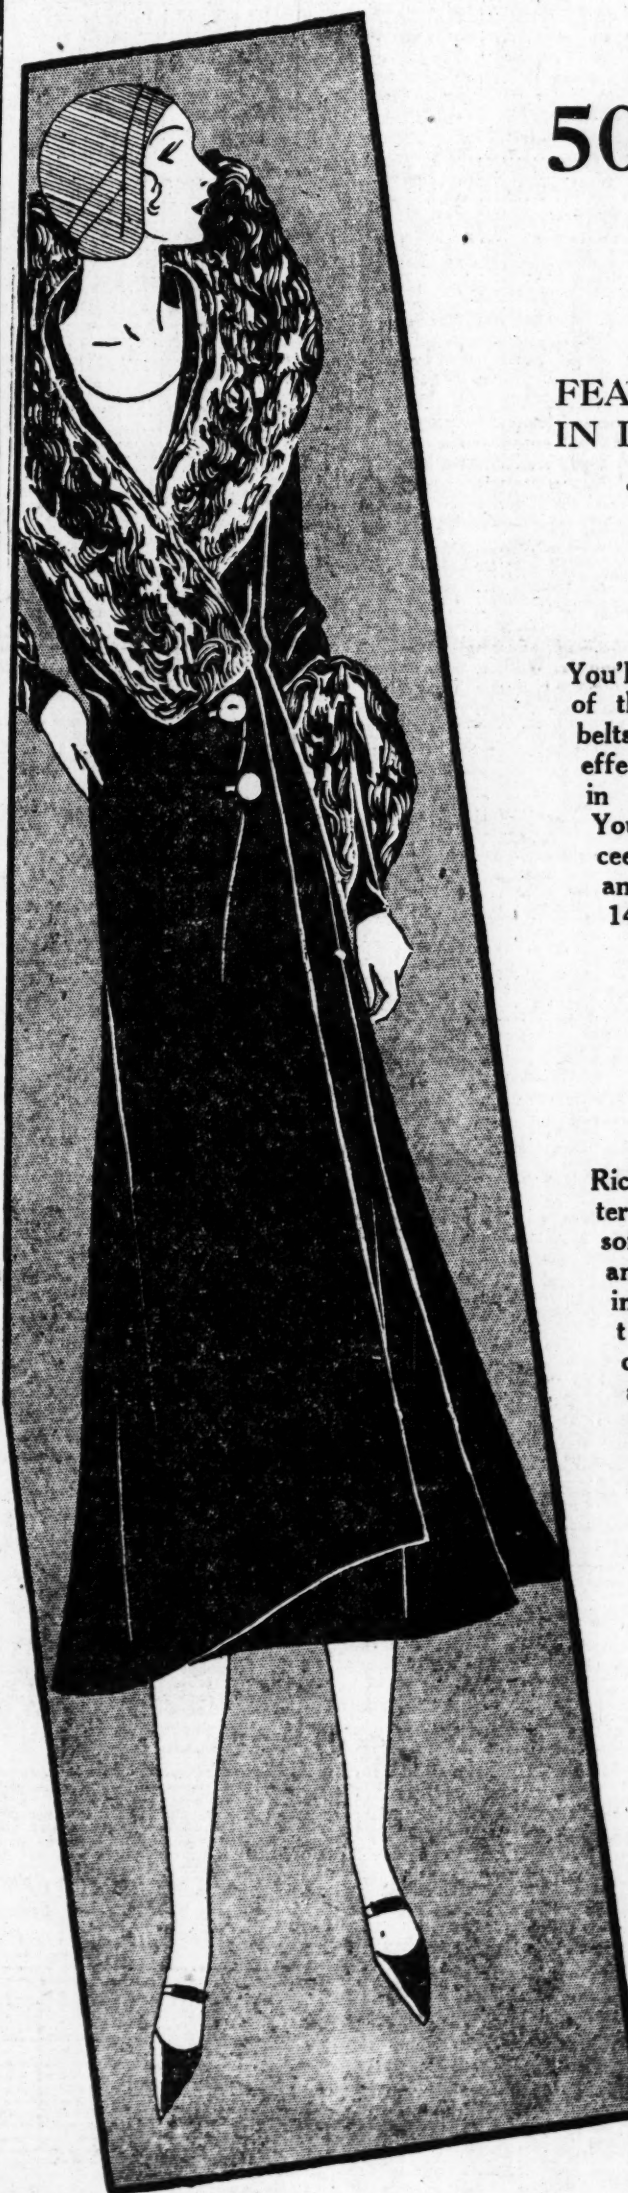

Order Nucoa from your grocer today—and make the Hot-Toast Test.

Then use Nucoa in your cooking and on your table and note how the delicious promise of the Hot-Toast Test comes true.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23, (A). Under

After a tumble as much as 2-1/4 cents a bushel in some cases, the corn market closed nervous, 13-8-17-8 cents lower than yesterday's finish. The most unsettled, 3-4-11-8 cents. Corn contracts were 10-1/2 cents off, and provisions varying from 1 cent down to a rise of 27 cents.

As soon as trading started, the immediate factor was a crop estimated by a leading private authority at 1.5 billion bushels, compared with the latest official forecast of 1.7 billion bushels. The 258 carloads of corn in Chicago was reported as new arrivals from the Midwest from the east were current of strenuous competition given by much cheaper substitutes, to be met by the export of feedstuffs from other countries. Under such circumstances it was in vain friends of prices contended that chances against any important amount of being sold in the United States, especially from Argentina, inasmuch as Europe's corn was short and Argentina's usual market was a drop.

Most of the provision went low-responsive to setbacks of hog val-

YORK, Oct. 31.—Commercial failures in the third quarter are unusually high in number. The failures for the quarter were 42 in excess of the number two years ago. The figures show that of the 414 defaults reported in the quarter, 104 instances the failures were in connection with the war and the south. Failures due to the war were 104 and were unphased in the Pacific coast.

W. L. Norton, president, in a letter to stockholders, said third quarter earnings of the Freedmen's Savings Bank were quarterly divided of $1 a share as a capital stock.

The official renewal rate for call money averaged 4 1/2 per cent during the quarter, varying from 2 per cent throughout the 22 days when a renewal rate was required. The bank has decided that a uniform rate for call money has been established for the whole month.

For the first five months of Spanish holidays, the New York City Savings Bank will be open for trading tomorrow and Friday on Saturdays thereafter.

WEEK GIVES COTTON NOTABLE ADVANCES

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The advance which was in progress at the end of the previous week in cotton continued until the price of new December contracts touched 11.55 and May 12.16 in the market here today. These quotations represented advances of approximately 150 points or $7.50 per bale above the low record for the season which, it may be recalled, were established just before the publication of the last government crop report on October 8.

Increased offerings were encountered at the advance, which appeared to include more cotton by the south as well as profit-taking by recent buyers and probably some selling for a reaction. Evidently the speculative interest had been covered on the advance, and there was less support from that source, but trade interests were buyers on the decline, while there may have been some offer over buying by commission houses.

The demand in the aggregate, whatever its character, was sufficient to absorb considerable cotton over the week when bullish views as to ultimate values remained much in evidence, although the buying on the week was less aggressive.

The report of the census bureau showing 9,252,011 bales gained prior to October 18 did not seem to make much impression on the market or cause any material change of sentiment as to the size of the crop. The market has also shown more or less indifference to unfavorable features in the weather news, although some of the trade feel that the cold rains and low temperatures are a factor in the export of the south has tended to eliminate the possibility of any important late season addition to estimates of the yield.

Bullish sentiment has found more or less encouragement in reports from the cotton goods markets both at home and in Lancashire, as well as in comparatively few reports of increasing mill activity are being received and the smaller volume of business noted in the future market here toward the end of the week may have reflected a disposition to await further developments in these directions.

The next government crop report is scheduled for publication on November 8, and it is thought likely that some of the price authorities will issue reports in the meantime, but up to the end of this week traders had evinced very little interest in the probable showing of the November 1 crop figures.

G. M. C. REPORTS EARNINGS DECLINE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP)—General Motors Corporation today reported net earnings for the third quarter of $2,470,997, equal to 33 cents per common share, against $2,708,025, or 35 cents a share in the corresponding period of 1929. In the June quarter the corporation earned $53,386,708, equal to $1.17 a share. The September earnings brought the total for the nine months to $131,403,125, equal to $2.85 a share on common stock after deducting preferred dividends, against $229,648,295, or $4.96 a share in the comparable period of 1929.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the corporation, said that earnings have declined due to perfectly evident and fully appreciated reasons, I believe the General Motors organization has established an operating record equal to and perhaps more outstanding than in previous years.

"I feel that as an organization we have a thorough appreciation of the necessity of continuing and completing the efforts we have put forth during this period. Any organization which will recognize this job and accomplish it is bound to enter the next general forward movement with an attitude of mind and an industry of purpose and effectiveness that will enable it in every sense to justify its existence."

Mr. Sloan said that the progress of the corporation could not be measured by the earnings for the nine months, saying that there were two factors of greater relative importance this year than last. He cited the fact that the General Motors Corporation obtained a larger percentage of the total automobile business in the United States as measured by new car registration than in 1929, and in August obtained in excess of 36 per cent of the domestic business.

Secondly, he said that inventories of raw materials and finished products and dealers' stocks of cars and trucks and net working capital were substantially increased.

Cash, United States governments and other marketable securities on December 30, 1929, total $220,464,960, as increased from $127,351,330 on December 31, 1929.

Net operating earnings for the first nine months, including equities in undivided profits of subsidiary and affiliated companies not consolidated amounted to $125,920,022, against $222,848,335 in the like period a year ago. To the net earnings of the second quarter, however, was added non-recurring profit of $2,521,000, realized from the sale of common stock to the General Motors Management Corporation. With that addition the net earnings for the nine months were $128,441,022. Net operating earnings alone amounted to $2,488 a share.

Woman Reformer Held For Armed Robbery

WINCHESTER, Va., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Mrs. Agnes Mulligan Walker, prominent in the social and political reform movement, was taken to New York today by automobile to face charges there of robbing "with force and arms" Edward Irving Valentine of $200.

Two Winchester officers in whose custody Mrs. Walker was placed said she would be retained in a hotel in Baltimore, a suburb of Baltimore, to leave her two children with friends.

Before departing Mrs. Walker said she had been "forced" to charge her mother, Mrs. Agnes Murphy Mulligan, of Palisade, N. J., for refusing to relinquish certain rights in the estate of her father, William G. Mulligan, lawyer and real estate man. Mulligan died in August, leaving an estate valued in excess of $1,000,000.

New York Curb Sees
Bidding for Red Apples

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Red apples were traded on the New York Curb Exchange for a time today. A group of brokers rounded up several men in the financial district who were selling apples on street corners for the benefit of the unemployed and raffish their boxes on the exchange floor to the highest bidders. Bidding was active, but the modesty of these brokers prevented the sale prices from being printed on the ticker tape or elsewhere.

LUTZ REPORT COMBINS STATE TAX PLAN; EXTRA SESSION URGED TO REVISE SYSTEM

ASSERT LAWLESS ACT NOT DEFENSE OF WOMANHOOD

Resolutions Brand Lynch Law as "Deadly Blow at Our Most Sacred Institutions."

OFFICIALS CALLED TO STOP "ANARCHY"

Plea Made to Religious Leaders To "Cry Aloud Against This Crime Till It Ceases To Exist."

Twenty-one women, prominent in the religious, educational and social life of the south, met in Atlanta Saturday, broadcast to the world a repudiation of lynching as "a defense of womanhood," and called upon America to make an end of this crime "which discredits our civilization and our religion around the globe." Eight southern states were represented in the meeting.

"We are convinced that lynching is not a defense of womanhood or of anything else," said the women in their statement, "but rather a menace to private and public safety and a deadly blow at our most sacred institutions." Lynching, according to the group, "is not alone the crime of ignorant and irresponsible mobs, but every citizen who condones it, even by his silence, must accept a share of its guilt."

Anti-Mob Crusade Planned.

The meeting, called by the commission on interracial co-operation, spent the day planning a sustained south-wide crusade, through all available agencies, against mob violence. Efforts will be made to enlist the organized bodies of women, religious and civic, and a special appeal will be made to the governors of the various states, in the belief that their influence may be made an effective factor in the prevention of lynching, as has been demonstrated in Alabama, North Carolina and other states. Most of them are officially connected with large and influential bodies of women. Those present at the meeting were:

Mrs. Una Roberts Lawrence, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. J. Morgan Stevens and Miss M. M. Lackey, Jackson, Miss.; Mrs. Ernest Moore, Clarksville, Miss.; Mrs. W. C. Wimbush, Shreveport, La.; Mrs. J. H. McCoy, Athens, Ala.; Mrs. Maud Henderson, Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. W. A. Newell, Greensboro, N. C.; Miss Gertrude Well, Goldsboro, N. C.; Miss Louise Young, Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. R. L. Harris and Mrs. G. V. Patterson, Knoxville, Tenn.; Mrs. William Snow Ethridge, Macon, Ga.; Mrs. W. Frank Smith, Mrs. W. T. Martin and Miss Elizabeth Head, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. L. H. Jennings, Columbia, S. C.; Mrs. P. O. Arrowood, Kinston, S. C.; Mrs. W. A. Turner, Newman, Ga.; Miss Abigail Curlee and Mrs. Jessie Daniel Ames, Decatur, Ga.; Mrs. Ames, who is director of the woman's work department of the inter-racial commission, presided at the meeting. Follow is the statement which was unanimously adopted and given to the public:

Oppose Lynch "Defense."

"Distressed by the recent upsurge of lynchings, and noting that people still condone such crimes, we are of the opinion that it is necessary to the protection of womanhood, we, a group of white women representing eight southern states, desire publicly to repudiate and condemn such defense of lynching, and to put ourselves definitely on record as opposed to this crime in every form and under all circumstances.

"We are profoundly convinced that

Kidnapers Ask $10,000 For Detroit Realtor

DETROIT, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Relative of Charles Kaier, 42, wealthy retired real estate dealer, reported to police tonight that Kaier was kidnapped Thursday night by four men who have demanded $10,000 ransom. Police said the report was made to them after Kaier had been taken to a house on a bank to a hotel where she was to meet the kidnapers. The kidnapers, police were informed, did not keep the engagement, and Mrs. Kaier collapsed.

The report to the authorities said that four men who represented themselves as "federal agents" visited the Kaier home Thursday night and told him he was "wanted at headquarters." He accompanied them, and later the ransom demand was made, police said. The police did not learn immediately what negotiations led to today's unexplained rendezvous.

Body of Unidentified Youth Found Hanging From Rafter

Mystery Surrounds Death of Man in Abandoned House Near Fairburn; Boys Discover Corpse.

FAIRBURN, Ga., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—Discovery of the body of an unidentified young white man hanging from a rafter in an abandoned house on the H. B. Godby estate, near Cook's Crossing, in Campbell county, Saturday night, started officers of that county on an investigation to determine whether the case is one of suicide or murder.

Although the circumstances pointed to self-destruction, certain contradictory facts balked a jury empaneled by Superior Judge Rivers from arriving at a verdict. The inquest will be continued this morning at the funeral parlors of M. W. Holsenback, in Fairburn, after Dr. W. R. Camp, county physician, examines the body for possible marks of violence and seeks to establish definitely the cause of death.

The body was found about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon by Floyd Johnson and Clarence Johnson, brothers, who live in that vicinity and who were on a hunting expedition. Notified of the discovery, Sheriff Tom Camp and County Police Chief G. C. Bentley took charge and began investigation of the case.

Sheriff Camp Saturday night said he was unable to express a definite opinion as to whether it was a case of suicide or murder, pending further examination of the body. At the undertaking parlors, it was said the condition of the body indicated the man had been dead two or three days.

Clad in winter ankle-length underwear, a blue button shirt, and a brown herringbone coat, the body was suspended from a rafter by a door of the house, strips of overalls being used as a rope, which was apparently fastened to the rafter by a knot. Although death apparently was due to strangulation, this was open to doubt because of the size of the noose and the position of the body, which was thrown back to the right as if resting on the noose.

The dead man's hands were clenched in his pockets. He was 135 to 140 pounds in weight, and approximately 25 or 30 years of age. His hair was brown and eyes were blue, and he had one gold tooth in the upper right jaw. There were no marks of tattooing on the body nor any deformities. In the shoes were delivered blank forms of the Detroit Open Bakeries, dated "10-3-30" and used as extra soles to keep the feet warm.

In the pockets of the coat were found a match, a three-bladed pocket knife, two cakes of soap, a comb, two pencil stubs, etc., and all marks of identification were torn out of the coat, which apparently had been worked over. The shoes were of the high-top Boy Scout type with laces. The right eye was discolored darkly as if from some sort of blow.

The house in which the body was found is a one-story three-room building. Several holes in the floor and paneled windows told a story of abandonment. There were no signs of a recent fire in the chimney. The walls were plastered in places with newspapers.

Discovery of the body came when the Johnson brothers, out hunting, looked through the house out of curiosity and found the body hanging from a rafter, they said.

SING SING CONVICT IS SHOT TO DEATH IN PRISON BREAK

One Prisoner Gassed, Another Wounded, Guard Shot and Two Inmates Missing After Battle.

OSSENING, N.Y., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Five convicts at Sing Sing prison, armed with three guns, overpowered a keeper tonight and escaped from a cell block into the prison yard. One was shot dead, another was wounded and a third was gassed. Guards scoured the prison grounds for the two still missing.

Prison authorities were convinced that the two missing convicts could not have escaped from the grounds, but persistent search failed to reveal their hiding place.

The keeper who was subdued by the armed convicts was locked in a cell by his assailants before they dashed into the open.

Three of the five convicts were cornered in the prison yard by a large force of guards after Ossening police armed with machine guns and tear gas guns.

Junior League elects members

In the first page of today's gravure pictorial are printed the likenesses of 20 of the provisional—the newly chosen members of the Atlanta Junior League.

These charming young women will be introduced at the meeting of the league next Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Clark Howell, Jr., will preside. In this group of young women, pictured exclusively in today's gravure section, are Misses Margaret Arnold, Sara DeSaussure, Mary Goddard, Laura Hoke, Frances Howard, Mary Jer-nigan, Julia Meador, Sara Meador, Adair McCarley, Caroline Paulin, Hannah Sterne, Elizabeth Spalding, Mesdames Howard Candler, Jr., John Candler, Colquitt Carter, Jr., John Fitts, Oliver Healey, Robert Maddox, Jr., Asa Patterson and John Stewart.

Tie Games Feature Campaign On All Fronts of Football War

Battling on a thousand fronts in one of the most indecisive campaigns of modern football warfare, team after team of the country's best was held to a tie score Saturday afternoon.

The wave of deadlocks started at Chapel Hill, N. C., swept up the seaboard into the strongholds of the east, across the continent and back to Savannah.

Two of the most startling of the ties were enacted at Chapel Hill, where Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets and the Tarheels of the University of North Carolina left the field with the score 6 and 6, and at Savannah, where Georgia's Bulldogs were held even at 0 to 0 by the "Gators of Florida. ED DANFORTH paints a vivid picture of the struggle at Savannah. RALPH MCGILL tells of the fight at Chapel Hill. Yale again proved the "jinx" team for Dartmouth, rising from its position of under-dog to tie the Big Green, 0 to 0. GRANTLAND RICE describes that game.

Alabama's tidal wave of crimson rolled over Kentucky, 19 to 0, at Lexington and ZIP NEWMAN, one of the south's most engaging writers, covered the game.

On two local gridirons a pair of Atlanta teams fought to decisions over invaders. Oglethorpe's Petrels made their debut before the home fans, downing Furman, 12-6, and the Tech freshmen won a 20-6 verdict over Auburn's yearlings. WALTER WILKES tells how the Petrels turned the trick and LEWIS HAWKINS describes the conquest of the Junior Jackets.

All over the country teams were putting forth their best efforts, some to win and some to lose, some to vindicate the experts and some to upstage them. The sports section contains reports of all these games in detail and the sports experts of the Associated Press have sent colorful accounts of the merry war on all fronts to The Constitution. Among the major games described are:

Tennessee, 27; Clemson, 0.

Vanderbilt, 24; Mississippi, 0.

Wash. State, 14; Ore. State, 7.

Purdue, 25; Illinois, 0.

Notre Dame, 27; Indiana, 0.

Ras Tafari Crowned Today King of Kings, Raz of Razzes

ABYSSINIA HAILS NEW HEIR OF SOLOMON

BY JAMES A. MILLS.
ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, Nov. 1.—(AP)—There was no sleep in the mud-brick cottages of this amazing town tonight; none in the field of tents pitched about its edges, nor in the palace of Ras Tafari Makonnen, for when the dawn breaks tomorrow over the 8,000-foot mountains which hem in the capital of Abyssinia Ras Tafari will be crowned emperor Haile Selassie I.

Emperor Haile Selassie, raz of razzes, lord king of kings of Ethiopia, conquering lion of the tribe of Judah, the elect of God and the light of the world. The little man whose luxuriant hair and coal black beard contrast so strongly with his frail frame, who bears those titles as descendant in the royal line from King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba.

Americans have come 6,000 miles to bear the good wishes of their president; England has sent her Duke of Gloucester; all the kingdoms of the world have sent their representatives bearing costly gifts, and tens of thousands of native tribesmen have come out of the hills to greet their part in the coronation of their emperor.

There was no sleep in the palace because Ras Tafari and his harem wife, the Princess Wazir Menen, were on their knees in prayer. The church of George, where the coronation ceremony is to take place. Among the tents which have sprung up because all the buildings of Addis Ababa do not house the visiting throng, pariah dogs slunk about in the unaccustomed abundance of food.

Addis Ababa, sprawled across two mountains and surrounded by forests of eucalyptus trees, looks like an African Coney island. Flags of a dozen nations wave in the sharp breeze which comes from the west. The hum of an extraordinary activity comes from the city of tents. American automobiles swing to the curb to pass swaying camels. Barefoot natives astride donkeys move about their business.

American motion picture crews, "on location" wherever they turn, have been making pictures for a week in preparation for the bizarre ceremonies which will begin with the dawn. Disgraced victors have been recited for days with the pomp appropriate to their rank.

It is the beginning of a new era for the little kingdom of Ethiopia, for Ras Tafari's wish is to make of his country a counterpart of the European civilization he admires. He wants to wear tomorrow the robes of the forest; he wants his people to know of the world with which he can keep in touch by the elaborate radio receiving set an American company has sent him.

It was but one of a thousand lavish gifts. There is a refrigerator which makes ice cubes; a three-bladed pocket knife; a comb; a pencil stub; and all marks of identification were torn out of the coat, which apparently had been worked over. The shoes were of the high-top Boy Scout type with laces. The right eye was discolored darkly as if from some sort of blow.

The house in which the body was found is a one-story three-room building. Several holes in the floor and paneled windows told a story of abandonment. There were no signs of a recent fire in the chimney. The walls were plastered in places with newspapers.

Discovery of the body came when the Johnson brothers, out hunting, looked through the house out of curiosity and found the body hanging from a rafter, they said.

HOWELL DEFENDS PRIMARY, URGES SUPPORT OF PARTY

Alleged Irregularities Denied by Executive Committee Head; "Independent" Candidates' Platform Scored.

Calling upon democratic voters of Fulton county to rally to the support of Paul S. Etheridge, Walter C. Hendrix and Dr. William L. Gilbert, democratic nominees for three posts to the Fulton county commission, who are opposed by five independents, Albert Howell, chairman of the Fulton county democratic executive committee, Saturday issued a statement declaring that the reports of irregularities in the March 19 primary are groundless.

He asserts that those candidates who participated in the primary and who held a remedy at law, but that they failed to avail themselves of it or to submit to the democratic executive committee a single instance of alleged fraud, on which they are predicating their campaign as independents.

In referring to the rumors and reports of alleged irregularities, which are being circulated about the election, Mr. Howell states he resents them "in behalf of all its (the committee's) members, and calls upon the democrats of the county to rally to the support of the party not only by casting your ballots in support of its regular nominees but by using your best efforts to induce every county democrat of your acquaintance to cast his ballot for the democratic nominees in the general election next Tuesday."

Text of Mr. Howell's statement follows:

"To the Democrats of Fulton County: In view of the insinuations and veiled charges against the Fulton county democratic executive committee, disseminated by or in behalf of the independent candidates against the regular democratic nominees for county commissioners of Fulton county, it is proper that I, as chairman of the committee, should bring the facts of the matter to your attention.

"Charges have been made over the radio that the democratic nominees designated the managers and clerks officiating at the March primary, in which Messrs. Etheridge, Gilbert and Hendrix were nominated.

"This statement is utterly false and without the slightest foundation of fact.

"I have frequently differed in legal, political and personal views with

Body of Mrs. Martha McLendon, 22-Year-Old Atlanta Woman, Viewed By Hundreds at Morgue.

Identity of the young woman whose attempt to leap from the path of a speeding automobile Halloween night threw her beneath the wheels of an interurban street car in West End, was established Saturday afternoon as Mrs. Martha Lucile McLendon, 22, of 265 Crumley street, mother of two small children.

The woman's body, which had lain unidentified in a local undertaking establishment since last Friday night, was viewed by two acquaintances, Misses Josephine and Janie Raven, of 1161 Sylvan road, who definitely identified it as that of Mrs. McLendon. It lay upon a table in the examination room, and was surrounded by a crowd of persons had filed past the body in an effort to determine whether it might be that of a friend or relative.

Mrs. McLendon met death, according to reports made to police, when she made a frantic leap to avoid being struck by an automobile traveling toward her at a fast rate of speed. She was garbed in white duck trousers, green woolen shirt, black tam-o'-shanter, and a lumberjack's mackinaw.

Motorman B. F. Denmon, of 10 Frances place, Grove Park, told officers he saw the woman's leap and applied emergency brakes, but not in time to prevent the front truck of his car from passing over her body. She was severely mutilated, and it required nearly an hour to extricate her remains from beneath the car wheels.

Mr. Denmon said Mrs. McLendon had attended an informal Halloween party at the Service Men's Club at Fort McPherson, together with some young women companions. They left the army post late Friday night, and in some unexplained manner, the trolley victim became separated from her companions. She had visited her husband, Theodore McLendon, who was ill at the home of his mother, Mrs. J. E. McLendon, 782 Central avenue, and had accompanied him to a party her to the party. He declined, it was said, but told her to go ahead with her friends.

Mrs. McLendon and her husband moved to Atlanta about six years ago from Moreland, near Newman. They returned to Moreland from time to time, and because of her husband's illness they were living in separate homes, it was said. The husband kept the children, Walter, 5, and Joe, 3, with him.

Motorman Denmon was arrested on a charge of reckless driving of a street car, but was released in $500 bond. He will be given a hearing in recorder's court next Friday.

In addition to her husband and two sons Mrs. McLendon is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hard, of Moreland; five sisters, Misses Sadie, Willie, Mary and Grace Hand, all of Moreland, and Mrs. Henry McWright, of Thomsville; two brothers, Jesse and Benjamin Hand, of Moreland.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of Harry G. Poole and have not been completed.

TAX AMENDMENT'S DEFEAT AT POLLS IS RECOMMENDED

Substitution of Antiquated Constitution of 1877 and Reallocation of State Funds Suggested.

SLASH IN NUMBER OF COUNTIES ASKED

Temporary Curtailment of Highway Expenditures Also Recommended as Result of Study.

BY R. E. POWELL.

Turning a merciless searchlight upon Georgia's timeworn system of taxation, condemning its bygone constitution, freely and critically playing the spotlight upon the weaker parts of administrative organization and offering a series of legislative remedies to radically and extensively overhaul the fiscal structure until the present feeble machinery may be rebuilt by a constitutional convention, Dr. Harry L. Lutz, Princeton tax authority, has just submitted to Governor L. G. Hardman his report on Georgia's revenue problems.

Painting an ugly picture of the antiquated order of things, in sharp and contrasting detail, Dr. Lutz proceeds with two recommendations upon which he urges immediate action.

First, defeat of the pending (Lankford) income tax amendment which will be before the people at Tuesday's election, and Second, a special session of the general assembly to be called during the coming winter to write into law important corrective measures for clearing the existing huge state deficit and providing a remedy against a recurrence of such ills.

Viewed as equally important by some students of the state's problems are Dr. Lutz's suggestions that there be authorized a temporary curtailment of highway expenditures, and that a movement be started looking to the reduction of the present number of counties in the state.

Dr. Lutz report, which has been keenly anticipated by officialdom, brings with it recommendations which would admittedly prove of far-reaching consequence in the life of the state if enacted into law. It is submitted after a painstaking 90-day examination of Georgia's problems and affairs, and contains 126 pages of statements and conclusions sparkling with unrestrained comment.

Listing defeat of the Lankford constitutional amendment at the polls Tuesday as the most pressing problem to be disposed of and urging an extraordinary session of the general assembly as of next importance, the distinguished Princeton economist summarizes the state's needs in 29 separate recommendations which follow a statement of conditions as he finds them.

Sweeping Proposals.

U. S. CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION URGED

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The calling of a constitutional convention to consider the prohibition amendment is one of several nebulous proposals heard here from the ranks of the Hoover law enforcement commission as it approaches its showdown on the wet and dry issue next week.

The plan for a constitutional convention, provided it can be strictly limited to the prohibition subject, is known to be seriously considered by at least one member of the commission but there is doubt in the mind of the commission that the necessary limitation can be imposed.

For that reason, the other members are diligently studying additional prohibition proposals and until the commission has finally fully discussed its views in secret sessions there are no authoritative prophecies on the outcome.

The members meanwhile insist they are keeping open minds for the discussion which begins next Wednesday but their minds are well filled with facts from the exhaustive reports on prohibition conditions they have been going over.

There is every indication that the Volstead act, the machinery for enforcing the 18th amendment, is due for first consideration. But in the opinion of those who are studying the plan, the prohibition amendment itself the real deliberations of the commission seem likely to center.

It would be up to congress to call a constitutional convention. By the selection of delegates to that convention each state would, in effect, have a referendum on prohibition, in the opinion of those who are studying the plan.

But there is a keen conflict of opinion on whether the convention could be limited to a consideration of the prohibition amendment and this forebodes a dubious future for the plan.

The Philadelphia convention, called to consider amendments to the articles of confederation in the early days of the nation, resulted in an entirely new constitution. From this springs the fear on the part of some that such a convention can not be limited.

Little hope is held in the commission membership of an early agreement on a prohibition report although there is a distinct feeling that some manner of report embodying the views of most of the eleven members can be agreed upon in time for submission to the next session of congress which meets December 1.

Lynching is not a defense of womanhood or of anything else, but rather a menace to private and public safety, and a deadly blow at our most sacred institutions. Instead of deterring irresponsible and criminal classes from further crime, as it is argued, lynching tends inevitably to destroy all respect for law and order. It represents the complete breakdown of government and the triumph of anarchy. It brutalizes the community where it occurs, including the women and children who frequently witness its orgies, and particularly the youth who are usually conspicuous participants. In its indiscriminate haste for revenge, the mob sometimes takes the lives of innocent persons, and often inflicts death for minor offenses. It brings contempt upon America, and is the only country where such crimes occur. It credits our civilization, and discounts the Christian religion around the globe.

We would call attention to the fact that lynching is not alone the crime of ignorant and irresponsible mobs, but that every citizen who condones it, even by his silence, must accept a share of its guilt.

"We, therefore, call upon all our public officials to use every power at their disposal to protect from mob anarchy the laws they are sworn to defend; upon our religious leaders to cry aloud against this crime till it ceases to exist; upon parents and teachers to train up a generation incapable of such lapses into barbarism, and upon all right-thinking men and women to do their utmost in every way for the complete eradication of this crime."

National Poultry Show Here Likely To Fill Auditorium

Miss Hilda Burnette, of Decatur, Ga., is seen holding champion pullet of the Southeastern Fair poultry show, the property of Robert N. Springfield, president of the Atlanta Winter Poultry, Rabbit and Pigeon Show. This brown leghorn pullet will make her bid for national honors at the Atlanta Auditorium show, November 26-29.

Orders for premium lists and information for exhibitors arriving within the past week give assurance that the Atlanta Winter Poultry Show, November 26 to 29, inclusive, will fill every foot of available space in the auditorium and its exhibit annex.

"We are beginning to be afraid we shall have an overflow of entries," said Robert N. Springfield, president of the show organization, Saturday.

"It will not only be the biggest poultry show ever held in the south but by far the finest. The dates are late enough in the winter to permit breeders to have their birds in the pink of condition. Many of the more famous breeders will not make exhibits at fairs and other exhibitions held early in the fall, as the birds are never in their prime before late in November."

At the Georgia State College of Agriculture in Athens Professor F. E. Mitchell, head of the poultry department, is making plans for a great educational exhibit, showing how chickens should be kept and fed to produce better results. This institution has conducted for years a year-round egg-raising contest, which has attracted national attention. A group of senior students will attend the show and have charge of the college exhibit.

"Georgia consumes annually $23,000,000 worth of eggs, of which the state raises only about $10,000,000," Mitchell said.

FUND GROWING FAST FOR GRADY SUN PORCH

As many names continued to be added to the roll of the Sunshine Club, dedicated to the happiness and health of little patients at Grady hospital and with its object the establishment of a new sun porch atop the hospital, interest was centered Saturday about the benefit bridge party to be held at the Nurses' Home at 8 o'clock Friday night for the purpose of securing money toward the new sun porch.

Miss Durice Dickerson, superintendent of the campaign to raise the necessary funds, stated that many had made contributions during the week and that still others had made reservations for the bridge party. The price for the party will be $2 per table, or 50 cents per individual player. Miss Dickerson requests those playing to bring their own cards. The project is being sponsored by the Atlanta Woman's Club hospital committee and has the sanction of municipal authorities.

of the convict group, advanced and fired point-blank at Keeper Howard Marquard, wounding him in the left shoulder. Marquard blazed away at Gordon and shot him through the head, killing him instantly.

Immediately after, Herbert Davis was shot and wounded by a guard named Ed Ryan. The third convict, was overcome by tear gas and captured. Marquard and the two convicts were taken to the prison hospital, where physicians said they would recover.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes said three revolvers were found on the scene of the battle and these were believed to constitute the entire armament of the five rebels. The warden declared it would be impossible for the two missing men to leave the grounds and ordered a careful search of the 23-acre prison yard.

The objects of the search were Joseph Pohl, serving time for second degree murder and William Gordon, sentenced for robbery. Gordon was serving a term for robbery, as was Ryan, and Davis was in prison for grand larceny.

The five men were kept in cell house A, close to the 30-foot walls surrounding the prison. Soon after the house was locked in the night, the convict band rushed a keeper as he started to lock them in their cells. They took his keys and opened the door of the cell block that opened on the prison yard.

Within a few minutes another keeper in cell house A brought the news that Warden Lawes, who promptly sent for reinforcements to the Ochsling police and ordered the prison siren sounded.

While riot guns and machine guns were being distributed to guards who manned the walls, the warden received reassuring reports of the behavior of the other inmates of the prison. Quiet prevailed among the prisoners, even in cell house A, which holds 700 men.

the democratic nominees, and I had no conference or communication with either of them during the entire primary campaign, and no suggestion was received from either of them concerning the conduct of the campaign or the personnel of the managers or clerks.

"The subcommittee in charge of the designation of managers and clerks for each precinct were influenced solely by a desire to select honest, impartial and intelligent officials to receive the ballots of democratic voters in the primary, and to transmit the result to the executive committee.

"No request or communication from any candidate, concerning the appointment of any manager or clerk, was received by the committee, and no request had been made, it would have been disregarded.

"On the day prior to the date of the primary, a public meeting of the Fulton county democratic executive committee was held, over which meeting I presided, and which meeting the designated managers and clerks attended.

"At this meeting, I publicly called to the attention of the managers and clerks the fact that, regardless of any personal preference they might have, as individuals, concerning the candidates to be voted on, it was their sole duty and sacred obligation to exercise absolute fairness in impartially receiving the ballots and reporting the result.

"On the day after the primary, the executive committee met again and received from the managers and clerks at every precinct, the ballots cast by the voters, in each precinct, and an accurate and impartial compilation of the result was made, consolidated and publicly declared.

"On the day after the primary, J. Mallory Hunt, an experienced and reputable member of the Atlanta bar, called at my office, stating that he represented the defeated candidates of the primary who had requested him to investigate rumors of irregularities and frauds alleged to have been committed by the managers and clerks, and asked me for a copy of the printed rules of the Fulton county democratic executive committee, which had charge of the primary.

"I informed him that if any fraud or irregularity existed, the executive committee would be glad to entertain charges against the members of the county executive committee had no printed rules in the premises, the rules of the state democratic executive committee, which were printed and in the hands of the county executive committee, were in print, and that the code of Georgia prescribed the procedure for contests.

"No contest filed. "No contest was filed, but subsequently, a suit was filed by the unsuccessful candidates for county executive committee governing members of the democratic executive committee, alleging that they had suffered $100,000 in damages, one of the defendants in the suit being J. F. Thompson, who is now a candidate against the regular democratic nominees.

"This suit, no specific allegations of fraud were incorporated, but the petition prayed an order from the court, authorizing an investigation of the alleged irregularities, and the petitioners might satisfy themselves whether fraud or irregularities had been practiced.

"The court, after hearing very able and experienced counsel, and guided by the statutes and decisions of the state of Georgia, denied the relief prayed for.

"Prior to the date of the primary, and at the instance of the candidates who subsequently were defeated, a petition for a writ of habeas corpus was filed in the Fulton superior court, asking that the primary be enjoined, because the registration list had not been purged and the names of the defeated candidates had been determined by another judge of that court.

"The law of Georgia does not confer upon the executive committee the power to purge the registration list, and the petitioners, with the purging and revision of registered voters, this duty being conferred upon the board of registrars (consisting of two democrats and one republican) with which the executive committee had no connection.

"After a thorough hearing, the judge properly held that even if the registrars had not completed the revision of the registration list, the court was without authority to enjoin the primary election.

"At the last meeting of the democratic executive committee subsequent to the primary, after the announcement of R. F. Thompson as a candidate against the democratic nominees, which meeting was attended by Judge Thompson, I called to the attention of the meeting the charges of irregularities being used against the democratic nominees by the unsuccessful candidates before the courts of this county, are now opposing the regular democratic nominees of the primary in which they participated.

"Judge Thompson promptly stated that, as a member of the committee at the time of the primary, he had no knowledge of any fraud or irregularity affecting the primary, and that he had himself been sued and served as a co-defendant in the suit for damages above referred to.

"Judge Thompson further stated that subsequent to the primary, charges had been brought to his attention, but that they were confidentially submitted, on which account he declined to communicate the nature of the charges or the names of those who had confided the charges to him.

"I then announced that if any candidate or outsider had any knowledge of any fraud or irregularities affecting the primary, the committee would be glad to receive and investigate such charges, and act upon them, but no communication has been received by the committee from any source involving any charge of either fraud or irregularity.

"Urges Support of Party. "Charges have been brought to the attention of the grand jury of Fulton county which have served since the primary, and in each instance the grand jury has found no evidence in support of the charges and no justification for them.

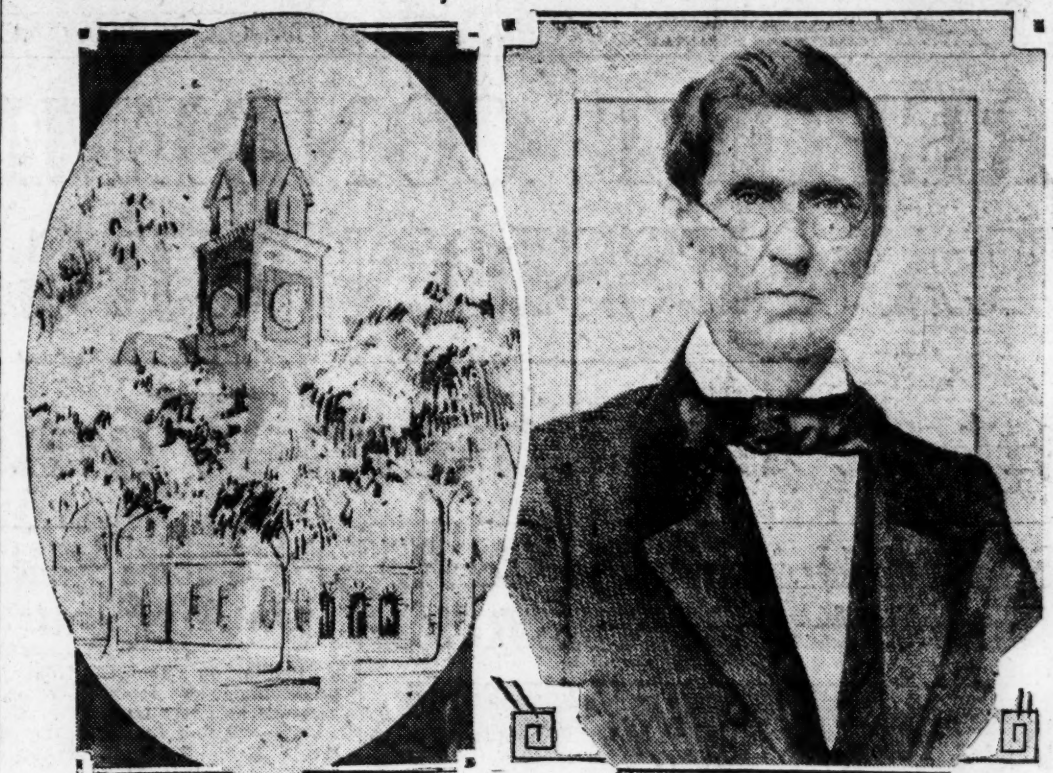

"The unsuccessful candidates had a legal right to file a contest which would have compelled a prompt and thorough investigation of any charge the unsuccessful candidates might have desired to file, but they preferred not to exercise their legal right in the premises, and after two unsuccessful contentions before the courts of this county, are now opposing the regular democratic nominees of the primary in which they participated.

"Personally, I have never offered for any political office of emolument during the 64 years of my life in Fulton county, and have no connection, direct or remote, with any county office-holder, and have no friend to reward or enemy to punish among the candidates in the general election.

"As a democrat, I regard the preservation of the party primary as paramount to any personal considerations, and feel that every democrat owes it to the party to support its nominees against boasters and independents alike.

"As chairman of the Fulton county democratic executive committee, I represent, in behalf of all of its members, including Judge Thompson, the charges disseminated by and in behalf of the independent candidates, which charges are false, and which have been broadcast, without bringing to the attention of the committee a single specific

Emory of 1845 Recognized Far and Wide as One of Nation's Greatest Seats of Learning

BY JIM HODGES.
A century has elapsed since Emory University first began shaping the untamed minds of questioning young men. Then as now, youth gave transient attention to wisdom and yawned at pedagogy. College textbooks and covered "bull" sessions where morality and religion and clay-footed ethics were wrecked and reformed by practical discussions.

In 1841, two years before the birth of Thomas A. Edison, electricity is credited to have been demonstrated to the students of old Emory college at Oxford, Ga., by Dr. Alexander Means, then professor of natural science there. And yet a scholar of that period writes this—"We would frequently all assemble in one room, and engage in any indoor amusement we could invent." Continuing, he speaks of one friend as an excellent hand on the fiddle and another as adept on the flute.

"We had much pleasure in listening to the music made by these gentlemen in conjunction. But through our boarders would very often play cards to while away the time."

Study of J. A. Turner.
Paul M. Cousins, of Shorter college, writing his life of Joel Chandler Harris had occasion to study another interesting personality, Joseph Addison Turner, who is remembered chiefly as the man who made possible the beginning of Mr. Harris' literary career. It is from extracts of Turner's manuscript journals secured by Mr. Cousins that an insight into the activities of students at old Emory may be had. J. A. Turner, born in Putnam county, Georgia, in 1826, embodied in his life the best traditions of a middle Georgia planter before the war. His varied interests included at times the occupations of a planter, lawyer, member of the state senate, lay preacher, poet, essayist, fiction writer, literary critic, and newspaper editor. He first attended Emory college, situated at Oxford near Covington, in 1845.

Judge Augustus Baldwin Longstreet was then president of the institution. Dr. Ignatius Fiebig had presided Longstreet as the first president of the young school, and Dr. Means, then a professor there, was to succeed to the office soon after Longstreet's resignation. All three men stand out in the development of education and Methodism in Georgia. Judge Longstreet is famous for his "Georgia Scenes," and Dr. Means for his work in science and his study of electricity. Means' ideas of what was to be in the future were far ahead of his day. It was Dr. Fiebig who suggested Oxford's classical curriculum in honor of the English university of the same name.

Finances in Bad Shape.
Emory then, was in dire financial circumstances; its promised endowments had not been paid. But through the efforts of Longstreet it rid itself of all embarrassments. The buildings, which were insufficient and plain, consisted of a steward's hall, four dormitories, and a wooden chapel.

The boarding of students in the hall proved unsatisfactory and from then on it was used only for recitations. Turner writes of himself and his companions living in a house near that of President Longstreet and taking their meals at the president's home. A bell was rung to summons them. All applicants for admission in the same class were examined together. Too late Turner found that he could have entered the junior class as easily as he had the sophomore as the examination was quite superficial.

The applicants were examined in Latin, Greek, arithmetic, algebra and geometry, but their ability was really measured by their proficiency in mathematics. Turner says in his writings that the faculty were not overly punctilious as to admission for the college was sadly in need of funds.

Instead of "Prexy" the students called President Longstreet "Foib" because of his frequent use of the world foibles in his lectures on manners and morality. Longstreet planted peas, potatoes and corn in a field near the school from which he gathered vegetables to be cooked for himself and the boys.

After classes Turner and his friends took long walks in the country when the weather would permit, or else amused themselves in their rooms. Also there were the literary and social orders which some of the students belonged to, their membership, much like that of the modern fraternities, based not on the student's knowledge but on the congeniality of a man.

LENGTH OF RAYS DETERMINES POWER

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE,
Associated Press Science Editor.
CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Discoveries that heat penetrates either lightly or deeply into the human body depending on the wave length of the heat rays were reported to the Optical Society of America here today.

Some heat penetrates like a hypodermic without a burning sensation while other kinds never do more than scratch the surface of the skin like lime.

This is explained the grateful sensation of basking in sunlight—it is deeply penetrating form of heat. Penetration comes from extremely hot sources and shallow heating, which actually feels hotter to the human nerves, emanates from the cooler heat sources.

These findings came from studies of medical heating apparatus now in commercial use to learn the differences in their heating values and were made by W. E. Forsythe and F. L. Christison, of the General Electric Company, Cleveland.

If a heat wave is much longer than about twice the length of the longest visible light, which is red, they find it cannot penetrate far into the body.

Heat energy of wave lengths longer than this, they stated, "will be partly reflected from the surface and partly absorbed in a very thin layer with the results that the surface temperature of the body will be raised. If a nickel plated electric flat iron operating at normal temperature is held within three or four inches of the radiation from it seems very hot, much more so than the radiation from the sun in midsummer."

Yet the sun's seemingly cooler heat rays are much the more energetic, 107 milliwatts as against 70 to 80 milliwatts per square centimeter from the electric iron.

"An interesting illustration is this: The body, being largely water, they explained, absorbs or rejects and reflects heat much as water does. This explains why water screens are sometimes used in front of a heater that is causing discomfort. The water lets the penetrating heat wave lengths pass to the human body, but screens out the uncomfortable ones.

A "dark current" which precedes an electric flash in the air was discussed by L. B. Snoddy, of the General Electric Company. He found that this dark current flows in a gap between two electrodes for a few billionths of a second before light appears. When the light comes its luminosity appears simultaneously throughout the length of the gap.

Lay Leaders of Methodism Will Gather Here Nov. 13

Dr. Harvey Cox To Lead Big Gathering of Churchmen of North Georgia District.

BY DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.
Methodist laymen will more than ever occupy a conspicuous place in the annual session of the North Georgia conference, which is to be held at Wesley Memorial church, November 13, and take a larger part in its deliberations, since 180 lay delegates have been elected to membership in the conference body and will represent the various districts of the North Georgia territory.

Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president of Emory University, is conference lay leader, upon whose shoulders will fall the task of directing the activities of the lay forces in church endeavor. Assisted by Dr. Cox in this work are district lay leaders, under whose direction the church enterprises are promoted throughout the 12 district. The district lay leaders are as follows: Dr. N. G. Slaughter, of the Athens district; C. T. Grizzard, of the North Atlanta district; John W. Hardwick, of the South Atlanta district; Dr. W. T. Price, of the Augusta district; E. P. Hall, of the Dalton district; L. L. Morris, of the Elberton district; J. H. Battle, of the Griffin district; W. N. Banks, of the LaGrange district; Smith L. Houston, of the Marietta district; R. P. Lester, of the Oxford district; and S. C. Connolly, of the Rome district.

Lately Within Bar.
During the conference session the lay representatives are seated within the bar of the conference, have the full privilege of the floor and take an active part in all phases of the conference routine work. The one feature of conference business in which laymen have no voice pertains to questions relative to ministerial character.

The larger field of effort for the laymen in conference session is to be found in the committee rooms. Call the four-year committees into action to the budget, missions, education, hospitals, Sunday schools, Epworth leagues, board of finance, church extension, temperance, social service, Christian literature, orphans and superannuates' homes about one-half the membership of said committee is composed of laymen.

Assignment of some prominent laymen to these four-year committees include the names of Addison Maudin, Atlanta; W. J. Hollingsworth, Augusta; Hayne Palmer, Gainesville, and H. J. Smith, Dalton, to the committee on budget. On the mission board are, among others, C. A. Rauschenberg, Jr., Atlanta; D. T. Manget, Newnan; J. B. Luke, Eatonton; Mrs. L. D. Yeargin, Rome; John S. Candler, Atlanta; Olin Roberts, Monroe; Sam Tate, Tate, and G. M. Jones, Newnan, are among the members of the board of education. On the hospitals board are found the names of J. B. Hutcherson, Jonesboro; Dr. A. A. Davidson, Augusta; T. W. Harbin, Calhoun, and W. O. Jones, Elberton; George M. Napier, Decatur; P. H. Smith, Elberton; M. S. Bell, Milledgeville, and C. L. Powell, Augusta, are among the laymen of the Sunday school board. Dr. B. O. Holtzendorf, Atlanta; S. D. Stenbridge, Milledgeville; Mrs. W. B. Richardson, Lavonia, and Frank Manning, Smyrna, are connected with the Epworth league board. On the board of finance are to be found J. B. Davern, Augusta; C. H. Hutcherson, Jonesboro; M. J. Daniel, Griffin, and W. B. R. Pennington, Covington. J. H. Hesch, Gainesville; W. G. Post, Newnan; E. L. Jackson, Calhoun, and R. H. Sasser, Jackson, are on the church extension board. The temperance and social service board has among its members: Professor E. H. Johnson, of Emory University; Mrs. R. P. Boykin, Carrollton; Mrs. J. C. White, Atlanta, and P. T. McCutcheon, Franklin. Christian literature interests are considered by I. S. Hopkins, Atlanta; W. G. Meador, Gainesville; Mrs. L. K. Smith, Carrollton, and J. H. Coleman, Dalton, and others. On the orphans' home board are Dr. A. H. Cochran, Atlanta; Victor Allen, Buford; J. B. Hill, Dalton, and Dr. J. W. Hardeman, Marietta. On the board for superannuates' homes are James L. Key, Atlanta; E. C. Hayes, Elberton; Mrs. A. P. Patterson, Griffin, and J. T. Dennis, Atlanta.

Lay Groups.
One of the great features of southern Methodism's development during recent years has been the growth of interest among laymen in church enterprises and their devotion to the plans of promoting those enterprises. So widespread and thorough has that phase of Methodism become, until now there is a complete organization, reaching from the smallest congregation in the most remote section through the charge, district and conference up to the general board of lay activities made up of the lay leaders of all the conferences, together with two bishops and six traveling elders, and with headquarters in Nashville in the general secretary's office.

A definite instance of organized laymen's work is in process just now in the vicinity of Atlanta, throughout the north Atlanta district. In that district, under the guidance of Dr. S. P. Wiggins, presiding elder, there has been created a special district commission composed almost entirely of laymen devoted to the special work of cooperation and extension of the church's work in that territory.

The north Atlanta commission of laymen is devoting attention particularly to a systematic survey of the field, a district-wide evangelistic effort and financial assistance. The survey contemplates not only the locating of all Methodists, but also the selecting of choice locations for organizing and establishing churches in the years to come.

Latest Venture Launched.
Under Dr. Wiggins' call a special group of laymen and pastors gathered at Druid Hills church 10 days ago and launched this latest venture, which is said to be one of the most vital moves made in behalf of Atlanta Methodism.

DR. HARVEY W. COX.

started, to be perfected this month, and first efforts of the new commission of extension and co-operation will be taken during the early months of the conference new year.

The coming session of the North Georgia annual conference will witness an instance of lay recognition never known before in this section. Bishop John M. Moore, who is to preside for his first time in this state, has let it be known that he plans to have what is known as "open cabinet."

In the "open cabinet" procedure the bishop and presiding elders will arrange the list of appointments for the preachers as usual, to the best of their judgment. Then the parties concerned may make inquiries as to their appointments and the preachers assigned to churches. At a given time preachers may visit the presiding bishop and express approval or disapproval of the appointment assigned them. Also at a given time laymen may visit the bishop and give voice to their likes or dislikes regarding the pastor proposed for their churches.

This is a new venture in the North Georgia conference, and there is much speculation as to its working. However, new though it may be, it affords the laymen an unprecedented opportunity to make suggestions as to appointments.

In the actual membership of the coming conference session there will be 310 ministers and 180 laymen. Among the lay representatives 42 of them are women, 12 of whom are wives of ministers. The lay members are selected by their various district conferences, allowing one lay delegate for each 800 members in the district. The North Atlanta district has the largest number of lay representatives, having 24, while the South Atlanta district ranks next, with 22 laymen in the conference group. The Oxford district has the smallest number of lay representatives, 11.

During the conference week a special program devoted entirely to laymen's activities will be given, when an entire evening service will be taken up in consideration of the lay schedule of work for the coming year. G. L. Morelock, of Nashville, general secretary of the church-wide board, will probably deliver the chief address of the occasion.

RED CROSS EXPENSES EXCEED YEAR'S BUDGET

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, announced today his organization's budget for the year ending June 30, 1931, was $4,042,000, but that actual expenditures would greatly exceed that sum because of "the huge relief problems facing the nation."

Reporting on expenditures last year, Judge Payne said $4,254,700 had been spent for national and international work, and that 3,550 chapters had spent $5,000,000 more despite the fact that no major disasters occurred.

Relief furnished in minor domestic disasters caused the largest expenditure last year, one of $1,208,151, the Red Cross chairman reported. The second largest, he said, was of $882,330 for work with disabled veterans and their dependent families.

After listing various other expenditures, together with outlays in the Philippine Islands and Porto Rico, Judge Payne said this program "gives an idea of normal Red Cross annual expenditures" in years in which there was "no great disaster necessitating large relief funds."

EMPLOYMENT GROUP HEAR MANY REMEDIES

Chairman Advises Prospective Buyers as Proposals Pour In.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—New balm for the ills of unemployment were proposed today to the president's emergency committee as a word of advice came from its chairman for prospective purchasers.

Scores of communications poured into the mail box of the committee telling of successful efforts by civic and welfare organizations and government bodies to provide work.

At the same time, Colonel Arthur Woods, chairman of the committee, admonished those without income or savings to buy wisely, but encouraged those who could afford to make purchases without endangering their finances to do so. Not only would purchases now stimulate industry and employment, he said, but they would constitute wise economy in view of the generally low prices.

The chairman recommended to industry a study of the plan adopted by Procter and Gamble of Cincinnati to keep its 10,000 workers in plants in eight American and Canadian cities at work the year round with reduction in salaries. The company advised him today its monthly pay roll amounted to $1,000,000, and assured 50,000 men, women and children of a comfortable living through the winter.

Meanwhile, the war department announced projects costing $3,074,721 to keep its 10,000 workers in plants in eight American and Canadian cities at work the year round with reduction in salaries. The company advised him today its monthly pay roll amounted to $1,000,000, and assured 50,000 men, women and children of a comfortable living through the winter.

Representative Celler, democrat, New York, urged that the navy be built up to the maximum strength allowed under the London naval treaty, as an employment measure.

3 KILLED, 128 HURT IN OCTOBER MISHAPS

Three deaths and injury of 128 persons featured 123 major automobile accidents in the Greater Atlanta area during October, it was reported Saturday by the Atlanta Motor Club. Two pedestrians and one passenger were victims in the fatal accidents.

There were 58 collisions between automobiles, four between automobiles and bicycles, three between motorcycles and automobiles, three between street cars and automobiles, and five between automobiles and other objects. Three accidents were caused by drinking drivers, and seven were of the "hit-and-run" variety.

During October 806 motorists were cautioned by the motor club about crossing traffic boulevards without stopping, as required by ordinance, it was reported. In addition, 64 motorists were warned against crossing on red lights, and 437 for starting and crossing intersections on amber lights. Cards commending careful and considerate drivers were mailed to 204 motorists by the club's safety department.

GEORGIAN FACES LIQUOR CHARGE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Charged with having smuggled about 400 cases of choice liquors into the United States, the crew of a fire of the speedy run boat Puelios, captured yesterday by the coast guard, today were held in $5,000 bail each for trial November 17. The defendants pleaded not guilty and gave bail to a United States commissioner. The Puelios was taken to New London after capture off Rock Island, but was brought here today under her own power with the crew and cargo of liquor.

Among the five arraigned was Robert Drury (718 Brill street), of Savannah, Ga.

CARNEGIE FOUNDATION GIVES FELLOWSHIPS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The Carnegie endowment for international peace announced today through its Washington office an unnamed number of international law fellowships, ranging from $1,000 to $1,800, would be awarded for the year 1931-32, with applications receivable up to next March.

The fellowships will be divided into teacher and student groups. They were established, the endowment announced, "for the purpose of providing teachers competent to give instruction in international law and related subjects" and as an aid to colleges and universities in improving the teaching of these subjects.

SOUTHERN PROTESTS FURTHER BARGE LINES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A protest against any extension of government waterway operations was filed by the Southern railway today with the interstate commerce commission.

The complaint was aimed directly at a project of the Inland Waterways Corporation, which operates government-owned barge lines, to open a water service on the Illinois river and require railroads to make rail and water rates on a basis lower than all-rail charges in co-operation with the river line.

POLICE SCATTER "RED" MEET IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A demonstration of communists in front of the city-county building here today was broken up by police. Six participants, including a negro woman, were arrested.

The city-county building was the scene of the arrest of James H. Maurer, socialist candidate for governor, last Saturday when the socialist party attempted to hold a meeting there after the police had refused to grant a permit for it. Maurer announced they would hold the meeting on the steps of the building today. It was broken up before it had any semblance of organization.

Husband, Despite Suit, Must Keep Wife Warm

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP)—It was a question of pay up or heat up today for John Glistra, apartment house owner.

Glistra lives on the first floor. His wife, who recently sued him for divorce, lives on the second. So do her eight children.

It has been chilly in Chicago this fall and when Mrs. Glistra's attorney went before Judge Harry A. Lewis with the charge that Glistra recently cut all the steam pipes leading to radiators in his wife's apartment and sealed the chimney flue so she would not use a stove, the court felt it was time to act.

Glistra, the court held, could either fix the heating facilities or if he preferred—have his alimony payments stepped up from $25 to $50.

Whale Skeletons Prove Great Lakes Once Salt

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The finding of pleistocene whale skeletons in Michigan is regarded by Dr. Remington Kellogg, national museum authority on whales, as neatly fitting another piece in the puzzle of the 30,000-years-ago map.

Already, he said, early whale remains had been found up the St. Lawrence river, nearly to Lake Ontario, showing that section was once a part of the salt sea. And the new Michigan find, he said, would indicate the Great Lakes, now fresh, were once a continuation of this St. Lawrence arm.

"For those whales swam up," he said, "it's a cinch they didn't climb Niagara Falls."

TAYLOR AND DOBBS TRIALS ARE DELAYED

The cases of Walter C. Taylor, former city clerk, and W. Guy Dobbs, former alderman, which were set for trial Wednesday before a jury in Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy's division of the Fulton superior court were removed from the calendar Saturday and will not come up for trial until next week or possibly later, Assistant Solicitor General Ed A. Stephens announced.

The trial of the Taylor case was delayed at the request of Reuben A. Taylor, chief of the former city clerk's counsel, who has just returned from Europe and reported himself unable to prepare for an appearance in court Wednesday. Delay in the trial of Dobbs was caused by the illness of an important witness for the state, who is confined to a hospital, Mr. Stephens said.

Two other "graft" cases docketed for trial this week are those of Councilman W. Paul Carpenter, charged with bribery and W. A. Alcock, charged with jury tampering. Mr. Stephens said one of these would be taken up Wednesday.

SANTE FE TO OPEN NEW SOUTHWEST LINE

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A $4,500,000 international rail venture into the broadest area of undeveloped territory in the southwest will be officially inaugurated tomorrow.

A special train from San Angelo will traverse recently-laid rails of the Santa Fe railway to Presidio, Texas, on the Mexican border in the big bend of the new line, symbolizing the trying in of the Santa Fe with the Mexican Orient. The train will proceed to Chihuahua City, where officials of Mexico will join in a celebration of the new bonds of steel joining Mexico and the United States.

MILLSAPS COLLEGE GOES ON APPROVED BASIS

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Millsaps college has been placed on the approved list of the Association of American Universities, which last week at its San Francisco meeting dropped University of Mississippi from membership because of faculty shake-up.

President D. M. Key, of Millsaps, a Methodist school located here, said today that he had been notified of the association's action.

Autoist Wrecks Same Store on 2 Occasions

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Nov. 1.—(AP)—A year ago G. W. Sammis lost control of his car and drove it into a vegetable and meat market here.

This afternoon while the store's clerks were coping with the Saturday crowds there was a crash and a hurricane of squashes, tomatoes and eggplants from a shattered counter caused customers to leap to nearest cover. A dozen persons narrowly escaped injury.

Emerging from hiding, a clerk saw the automobile stop just short of the meat counter. "Well, I see you're back again, Mr. Sammis," he said to the driver. "Can't you come in more quietly?"

Sammis said he had lost control of his car.

FIGHTERS SUBDUED WEST'S BRUSH FIRES

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Brush fires which have swept upward of 50 square miles of valuable watersheds this week in Ventura and Los Angeles counties were either officially out or under such control as warranted withdrawal of many of the hundreds of firefighters late today.

Ventura officials left but 50 precautionary fighters about Grimes canyon, last furnace pit of the Simi hills fire which blackened 20 square miles of brush-covered ridges and canyons. The Spangmoor canyon section of the Malibu mountains fire also was reported extinguished, except for a small spot from which no trouble was anticipated.

Ventura county forces were thrown into the Conejo grade sector of the Malibu fire, which continued to burn hotly.

WRIT ASKS RELEASE OF JOHN H. JACKSON

John H. Jackson, father of H. Edward Jackson, alleged embezzling cashier of the First National bank of Laurel, Miss., arrested here Wednesday night and charged with complicity in the reported peculations of his son, Saturday filed a habeas corpus petition for his release. The petition gave to be given a hearing at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon before Judge G. H. Howard in Fulton superior court.

The writ plea was filed with Judge Virlyn B. Moore, presiding over the criminal division of the court by Attorney Sydney H. Baynes. Judge Moore assigned it to Judge Howard for hearing.

Revival Opens Monday

Dr. G. W. Washington, evangelist, will preach at Mt. Carmel Baptist church, on Sampson street between Houston and McGruder streets, in a series of services to be held at 7:30 o'clock each night starting Monday and ending Friday, it was announced Saturday by the Rev. P. L. Jones, pastor.

John Phillip Sousa, before his Tuesday evening concert, approached Clint Barber, custodian of the Auditorium-Armory, and presented him a beautiful Waltham wrist watch as a personal token of esteem. Mr. Barber was a former bandmaster and a valued member of Sousa's band for some years. He trained several of the members of the present band. The March King holds Mr. Barber in high appreciation.

Halloween at Base hospital, No. 48, was made a happy occasion for the invalid ex-service men who are patients there. The ladies of the American Legion auxiliaries provided charming musical and literary exercises, games for prizes in which the vets could contend, and served appropriate Halloween refreshments. Mrs. Fred Scheer was the adept and exhilarating mistress of ceremonies, with many accomplished aids. Dr. Sam Small, chaplain in chief of Spanish War Veterans, made the principal talk to the buddies.

Baltimore P. Gambrell has been made a member of the firm of Reuben R. and Lowry Arnold, and henceforth the firm will be known as Arnold & Gambrell. It was announced Saturday. The new member is a native of South Carolina and a past commander of Atlanta Post No. 1, American Legion. He was formerly in the office of the secretary of the senate.

William John Cooper, United States commissioner of education, will be one of the principal speakers at the annual meeting of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, here during the first week in December. Dean Gordon J. Laing, of the University of Chicago, also will speak. Headquarters of the association will be at the Baltimore hotel.

The Rev. W. E. Crane, former pastor of the Porterdale Presbyterian church, will be installed as pastor of the Greenwood Park church at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Rev. J. Sproule Lyon will preach the installation sermon. Mr. Crane is a native of Georgia. He was installed at the pastorate at Guntersville, Ala.

The Traffic Club of Atlanta will meet at 12:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Athletic Club to handle general business of the organization. H. A. Manning is president of the club.

Credit unions in Georgia will meet at 8 p. m. November 12 at the Henry Grady hotel to discuss possible revision of the league by-laws. Roy F. Bergengren, executive secretary of the Credit Union National Extension Bureau, of Boston, Mass., will attend the meeting. The business session will follow a dinner. George M. Gentry is president of the Georgia league.

Eugene Talmadge, state commissioner of agriculture, Saturday morning reported that his home near McRae had caught fire and burned. The blaze originated in the attic, probably from a fire in the chimney catching through holes where mortar was loose, he said. The building was a two-room one-story house, on which no insurance was carried, he said.

Postmaster E. K. Large Saturday afternoon put up the "No More Help Wanted" sign after a flood of applicants for extra Christmas work at the postoffice had exhausted the list of places open. The parceling of jobs was handled through the Community Chest and other agencies so as to aid in relieving unemployment as much as possible.

District Attorney Clint W. Hager Saturday said he was still awaiting orders from Washington to file condemnation proceedings in the securing of title to the site for the new $2,500,000 postoffice building. Papers are ready to be filed and await the official signal from Washington, he said.

Diabetics

If you have the slightest symptoms of Diabetes—such as excessive thirst, inordinate hunger, loss of weight in spite of keen appetite, with nervousness, irritability, restlessness, anxiety over trifles and loss of strength—lose no time in reading one of the most instructive books of the day, "Back to Health from Diabetes." It will be mailed free to anyone who will send his or her name and address to Sanborn Laboratories, 436 Sanborn Building, Battle Creek, Michigan. It describes the Sanborn home treatment for diabetes and relates the experiences of many men and women of prominence who restored themselves to health after other treatments had failed.

The book has 64 pages bound in board covers and is a mine of authentic information for those who are suffering from Diabetes.—(adv.)

After 40, Bowel Trouble is Most Dangerous

CONSTIPATION may easily become chronic after forty. Continued constipation at that time of life is productive of piles—and a host of other disorders.

Watch your bowels at any age. Guard them with particular care after forty. When they need help, a doctor knows what is best.

"Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is a doctor's prescription for the bowels. Tested by 47 years' practice, it has been found thoroughly effective in relieving constipation and its ills for men, women and children of all ages. It has proven perfectly safe even for babies. Made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin, and other mild, harmless ingredients, it cannot gripe; will not sicken you or weaken you; can be used without harm as often as

The general public will be admitted to the hall on the first Sunday in every month, Miss Blair stated.

Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole Saturday admitted that the police are working on their first real clue to the slaying of John W. Robison, shot and killed a week ago Saturday night in the yard of his Kirkwood home. The clue has not been developed very far, but Chief Poole added he expected a "line to the real slayer" within a few days.

Albert Howell, chairman of the county democratic executive committee, will make an address over the radio at 10:15 o'clock Monday night in support of County Commissioners W. L. Gilbert, Paul S. Etheridge and Walter C. Hendrix, who are opposed in the general election Tuesday by independent candidates. Luther Still, Fulton county legislator, spoke in support of the democratic nominees Saturday night.

Solicitor-General John A. Boykin and Lewis Jones, calendar clerk in Mr. Boykin's office, went on a week-end hunting trip Saturday. Neither would reveal the section in which they were hunting, but the prosecutor asserting it was far too well stocked with game to make it an "open secret."

Building permits for the borough of Atlanta totaled $1,040,220, according to figures released Saturday by A. C. McDaniel, deputy inspector. There were 350 permits issued during the month. The gain over last month was several hundred thousand dollars and indicates a revival of building activity, Mr. McDaniel said.

Hoyt Garrett and Murphy Barton, of a Hoyt street address, told police Saturday afternoon that they were held up and robbed of $6.85 by two other young white men who had invited them to go for a ride in an automobile. The robbery, according to the youths, occurred on Whitehall Terrace.

County Nominees Assail Independents' Campaign

Incumbent Trio Term Opponents "Disgruntled Bolters" and Score Alleged Tactics in Race.

Branding as "disgruntled bolters" independents in the Fulton county commissioners race, which will be decided Tuesday by the voters of the county in the general election, Paul S. Etheridge, Dr. William L. Gilbert and Walter C. Hendrix, democratic nominees, Saturday issued a statement flaying the "campaign of slander and boomerang which has not stopped at personal vilification of the nominees of the white primary, but which has been spread until it has enmeshed even the judiciary, the solicitor, the courts and even the democratic executive committee."

For the first time, the nominees of the March 19 primary declared they would take notice of the "malicious slanders and insinuations, which have continued almost without cessation since that primary and which have been adroitly prepared and circulated in an effort to mislead voters into crushing the white primary in Fulton county, thus scuttling the party from the inside."

"We have hitherto refrained from making any statement regarding the general election on November 4, in which we, as democratic nominees in a white primary for county commissioners, are opposed by independent candidates," the statement which was signed by all three of the candidates declared.

"This is not a statement made as candidates, but one designed to tell the voters of Fulton the truth about the malicious falsehoods which these disgruntled independents have printed and circulated as truths."

"We ran in the white primary of March 19 before the people of Fulton county, at which time we were regularly nominated, and we know the people well enough to know that no amount of slush and boomerang will ever cause the honest white democrats of this county to repudiate a white primary and elect a group of disgruntled bolters."

"In the primary race, we were opposed by the same interests which are now fighting us in the general election."

"We have felt it unnecessary to dignify the malicious abuse of these candidates by taking any notice of their campaign of misrepresentation and abuse until now."

Issues Branded as False.

"This abuse has continued almost without cessation since the date of the primary. We have borne in dignified silence their false, many-sided and abusive insinuations, but when they direct charges of crime, irregularity and fraud against us as individuals, the time has arrived when forbearance ceases to be a virtue, and while we do not propose to answer for the democratic executive committee, which is amply able to take care of itself, and which is known to the public of this county as a body composed of outstanding and upright citizens, and while we shall pay no attention to the great volume of false and slanderous insinuations directed at us, county in general, including even the grand juries, solicitors, judges and courts, we do wish to brand as absolutely false the outstanding alleged issues on which they are precipitating their campaign."

"The effort to break this primary is not the result of any irregularity anywhere, except that a group of irregulars banded together in an effort to scuttle the democratic party from the inside."

"For this purpose they enlisted the support even of members of the democratic executive committee itself and they would even now ride into office over the prostrated body of the white primary in Fulton county, no matter what might be the cost in future years."

Primary Charge Denied.

"When they charge we called the primary last March, they know they are untruthful. The oldest political observers tell us that every primary called within the past 10 years has been held in the early spring for selection of county officers. That primary was set by the democratic committee, one of whom was Judge R. F. Thompson, one of the three principal malcontents running as an independent."

"Not one election manager or clerk was named by the county commission, but by the executive committee of the democratic party, a body composed of high calibre men, whose integrity is undisputed, and even though this group of bolters attempt to charge fraud and irregularities to them."

The independents know the registration lists were furnished by the registrars appointed by the judges of the superior court. They know we had no authority to direct the setting of the primary, selection of managers or preparation of registration lists."

Pledge Signed.

"On entering the white primary in March we each signed a pledge, independently included, to abide by the results of that white primary and to support the nominees."

"Those who seek to break that agreement, know we had no part in any illegal voting. We do not know that any was done. They have charged

The Psychology of Prosperity and Success will be the subject of a lecture in applied psychology to be delivered by Mrs. Rose Mae Aubrey this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the mahogany room of the Ansley hotel.

Detective Lieutenant T. O. Sturdivant sustained a deep cut on his forehead early Saturday morning when he arrested four patrons of the midnight show of the El theater on charges of drunk and disorderly. He was treated at Grady hospital.

Fire, believed to have originated from an overheated furnace in the basement, caused considerable damage to a duplex home at 802 Virginia avenue N. E., shortly after 7 o'clock Saturday morning. The home was occupied by P. W. Smith, vice president of the Dillard Jacobs Advertising Agency, and R. M. Britt.

Police Saturday were looking for a man seen loitering near a vacant house at 445 Robinson street, S. E., late Friday night, shortly before the place was heavily damaged by flames which firemen believed to have been of incendiary origin. W. E. Jones, 445 Robinson street, told police that he had seen the man there shortly before the fire.

Federal penitentiary prisoners will attend services today to be led by members of the cadet training corps of the Salvation Army College on Luckie street. The corps, with their officers and musicians, 70 in all, will be under the direction of Major Norman S. Marshall. Tonight the corps will be present at the Wesley Memorial church.

Frank McSherry, 22, of 187 Meritts avenue, was shot in the ankle accidentally Saturday afternoon during a rabbit hunt in which he and four companions were engaged near Temple. According to McSherry, two rabbits hopped up at the same time and in the barrage of birdshot that followed he was hit in the ankle. He was admitted to Grady hospital, where it was feared his ankle was fractured.

Commander Harold Jones, of the United States flag at the high school assembly of North Avenue Presbyterian school Tuesday evening, it was announced Saturday. The lecture will be illustrated with stereoscopic pictures.

Miss Ruth Blair, state historian, Saturday announced that the state department of archives, located in the former Rhodes home on Peachtree street, will be open from 3 to 5 o'clock this afternoon. The building will be open to the public during the same hours on the first Sunday of each month, she said.

Proposal to turn over to an expert the beautification of grounds at the new city hall was deferred Saturday when the parks committee of council failed to muster a quorum for the meeting. The deferred session will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Hartsock Adds to Poetic Fame With Latest Verse

New Collection Released by Noted Atlanta Writer.

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Ernest Hartsock, in his latest volume of verse, brings to a pessimistic age a collection of poems that carry the very essence of "the lyric consolation of the flesh."

Atlanta's brilliant writer, who has already won wide recognition by his earlier volumes, "Romance and Stardust" and "Narcissus and Iscariot," titles his newest volume "Strange Splendor." It is published by the Bonart Press, of Atlanta, and no collection of contemporary literature can call itself complete without a copy.

It is not, however, a collection primarily for the collector. Rather it is one of those delicious books which belong, handsomely, in the inglenook, ready to the hand, where weary men may reach and open, to sip spiritual wine when mind and heart is jaded after another day of the commonplace.

Mr. Hartsock finds his inspiration in natural beauty, of field and stream, of human heart and human desire. He is a prophet of freedom. No advocate of rigid rules and stiff prohibitions, his poems are things to charm the hearts and souls of seekers after natural beauty, what'er it be in the awaying of a sigh of a press swamp or in the carefree laughter of youth, unafraid.

His new volume is divided into six groupings and it is probable that neighbors of Mr. Hartsock will find "A Baker of the Warm South," as fascinating as any of the six. There is a penetrating brilliance in the second section "The Dawn," which is a collection of perhaps the best of the spirit of the author.

But this reviewer cannot resist the temptation, in ending this brief appreciation, of quoting from the closing group, "Epitaphs by Way of Criticism." For instance, "Epitaph for Trader Horn":

He wends away the Twilight of the Gods
With monstrous tales of apes and unknown races,
While angels gape and God nervously nods
To hide his ignorance of all these places.

MAN BADLY HURT IN MOTOR MISHAP

S. O. McGee, 46-year-old insurance agent, husband of the night supervisor of the colored ward of Grady hospital, was admitted to the hospital early Saturday night with a severe concussion of the brain and a possible fracture of the skull, as the result of an accident at Mayson and DeKalb avenues. According to police reports, he is said to have walked into the side of an automobile driven by R. S. Britt, of Norcross, Route No. 1. Physicians stated that his condition was serious.

IDENTITY OF WOMAN SHOT TO DEATH KNOWN

GARY, Ind., Nov. 1.—(AP)—George M. Brown, clerk of the Chicago Board of Works, today identified a woman who was shot to death in an automobile near here today as his daughter, Frances M. Brown. He expressed the belief that she had been kidnapped and shot by her former husband, John H. Rork, 32, of Pontiac, Ill. Rork was found in the machine with his former wife. He had a probably fatal bullet wound in his chest that authorities said was apparently self-inflicted.

DEPUTY SHERIFF KILLS WIFE'S COMPANION

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Mack L. Hardin, 25, tank wagon driver for an oil distributing company, was shot to death here tonight by George D. Hooks, 49, deputy sheriff of Knox county, when the latter walked into his home tonight and found Hardin with his wife.

This Property Owner Is in Difficult Spot

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 1.—(AP)—O. L. Parker, Minneapolis property owner, admittedly is in a tight place. He faces a jail sentence if he does and he may go to the workhouse if he doesn't.

Today he was under a 30-day workhouse sentence for failing to erect a structure which the city building department says is standing in violation of the zoning regulations.

But should Parker comply with the city's demands he is liable to go to jail for destroying mortgaged property because the holder of the mortgage refuses permission to wreck the structure.

ed it, but there has never come to the attention of the courts evidence to support such a charge.

It has been estimated that a $7,000 campaign fund was raised in our behalf. We admit that. There have been allegations that $147,000 was spent in behalf of the revolt, and bolting ticket, and it has never been denied.

"The democratic committee was sued by two of the three independent candidates, with the third occupying the unusual place as a co-defendant as a member of the committee, for $100,000 damages to practically pay for the expenses of the campaign, and for another $1,200, to cover the $400 entrance fee which each of the three contestants in the white primary posted as entrance fees."

"No contest ever was filed by the independents, and no protest was publicly made until approximately 60 days before the primary, when they entered the courts in a manner unauthorized by law, and lost, although the present candidates and incumbent commissioners never contested the court nor had we anything to do with the conduct of the case."

Executive Committee Personnel.

"Charges that we control the democratic executive committee are ridiculous. They have said it is composed largely of county employees. We did not know who composed the executive committee until a few days ago. On checking the list I find there are 26 men on it, eight of whom are employed by officials of the county, but none of them in the employ of the county proper nor under the direction of the commissioners."

"The entire campaign of the opposition has been built about a fabrication of falsehoods. They have not spared the sanctity of the courts or the personalities of the biggest men in the county in an effort to instill enough unrest to break the faith of the people in a white primary, a system built up through half a century of labor for protection of the voters of Fulton county."

Would Have Kept Pledge.

"If we had kept the white primary, we say unequivocally that we would have supported the nominees. We regarded that agreement as sacred."

"This fight is not the election of three county commissioners, it is a battle for the very existence of the white primary. If the nominees are defeated, it means the wrecking of the principle of the white primary."

All the issues which are in this race were in the primary, except that they have added another plank—kill the primary. We believe all the white voters, who participated in the March 19 primary, will participate in this to the extent that the primary system will be amply preserved for protection of posterity."

ERNEST HARTSOCK.

Illinois Ghost Town Marked by Monument

MT. CARMEL, Ill., Oct. 27.—(UN)—A six-ton monument in memory of Palmyra, ghost town of southern Illinois and first county seat of Edwards county, has been erected near here.

The dedication, held recently by the Daughters of the American Revolution, marked the town's 115th anniversary.

Although once one of the most prominent communities in Illinois it has been abandoned for almost a century. Of one thing, however, Palmyra may boast—for over 60 years it claimed the largest graveyard in that territory.

Palmyra was built on the site of an old Indian village. Warnings that death would result if a town was founded there went unheeded by the settlers; and, headed by R. L. Emmerson, ancestor of the present governor of Illinois, a town was founded and the government of Edwards county placed there.

But the Indian prophecy was soon fulfilled and in 1821 Palmyra was depopulated by a plague. Hundreds of men, women and children died and the few that survived went farther up the river where a new Palmyra was located. This also proved a failure and the county seat was moved to Centerville.

No Irregularities in Board's Deals, Walter Stewart Says

Presentments of Grand Jury and Attacks of Foes Are Answered by Commissioner.

Every transaction participated in by him since he became a member of the board of county commissioners has been a matter of record and on the public files, Commissioner Walter B. Stewart said in a formal statement Saturday, which followed the presentation to Judge John D. Humphries, of the Fulton superior court, Friday a report of a grand jury investigation into county affairs, which included a report of the paving of a road through subdivision property in which Mr. Stewart said to have held a private interest.

Commissioner Stewart in his statement said that the investigation was a result of widely circulated slanderous attacks on the commission and that it had been forcibly brought to the attention of the grand jury.

In its presentments the grand jury reported that it had learned that the Kingsborough road, through Ridgedale Park, a subdivision in which Commissioner Stewart had a private interest, was improved and paved at the county expense within a few months after the company in which Mr. Stewart held the interest acquired the property served by the road.

Laid to Office Seekers.
Mr. Stewart's statement follows: "For many months a group of disgruntled and disappointed office seekers have sought to fan public sentiment to a flame of prejudice against Fulton county, the board of commissioners and myself in particular, and by virtue of their campaign of slander, vituperation, insinuations and charges they succeeded in working up a sentiment of suspicion and antagonism to such an extent that every grand jury during the past year has been inevitably affected by it.

"The grand jury for the term now ended had this situation so forcibly brought to its attention that, notwithstanding they were committed to an investigation of other matters, they dropped everything and went into a full investigation of my personal activities. They had Robert P. McFarly, the acknowledged leader of this 'fact-finding' group before them for the period of the better part of a day with all his files and all the accumulated information that he and his group had been able to obtain during the months of their incessant activities. After hearing all that he and his associates had to say, they, publicly through the press, invited any and everybody to come before them with any information in their possession, promising immunity to all informers. According to the grand jury's own statement they made a complete investigation as a grand jury could possibly make.

"Nothing Irregular."
"An analysis of the presentments and a knowledge of the operation of the county's affairs would reveal the fact that there was not only nothing wrong in the transaction concerning myself, but that there was nothing irregular. The matter referred to has been a matter of public record in the office of the clerk of superior court and in the office of the clerk of county commissioners since its inception. There was nothing hidden, nor was anything sought to be hidden.

Joined by Etheridge.
Commissioner Paul S. Etheridge, commenting on the findings of the grand jury said that the "investigation resulted just as was expected." "The members of the county commission felt all along that nothing wrong would be found with their work," Mr. Etheridge said. "The result was as expected. It is a clean bill of health for the board and I hope it will halt the spread of insidious propaganda that 'something is wrong' with the operations and management of the commissioners."

CANADA DRY TO OPEN DISTRICT OFFICE HERE

District offices for Canada Dry ginger ale, formerly located in New York, will be established in Atlanta.

WILEY JONES SELLS INTEREST IN STORE

Announcement that Wiley Jones had sold his interest in the Wiley Jones Furniture Shoppe, 671 Peachtree street, was made Saturday. Mr. Jones said that the sale terminated his connection with the establishment and that he had made no definite plans for the future. The purchasers will continue the liquidation until the stock is entirely disposed of, the announcement said.

HARTSOCK SPEAKS AT MUSEUM TODAY

Ernest Hartsock, nationally-known Atlanta poet, will lecture this afternoon at the High Museum of Art, Peachtree at Fifteenth street. His subject will be "Literature and Its Application to Art." The lecture will begin promptly at 3 o'clock and there will be no admission charge.

Mr. Hartsock, who has won national renown for his poetry published in the leading magazines and in book form, has been highly complimented on his latest work, which came from the Bozart Press recently.

Two interesting exhibits are now on view at the museum, in addition to the regular collection. The child sculpture, by Isabel Kimball, one of America's most noted women sculptors, is attracting wide attention. There is also on view a group of 30 steel engravings by William Bailey, which have been presented to the museum by Isadore Strauss, of New York.

The museum is open daily from 10 to 4 and on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings from 7 to 9. On Sunday afternoons the hours are from 2 to 5. There is no charge for admission at any time.

EMORY'S ORCHESTRA PLAYS THIS AFTERNOON

Forty-five Emory University musicians will assemble in the school auditorium Sunday afternoon at 3:15 to present the initial orchestra concert of the year. George Rogers, winner of the local district Atwater Kent audition, and Deneen McCormack, violinist, will render solo selections. The Emory orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey, professor in the department of fine arts, has arranged a program consisting of selections by Beethoven, Chopin, Handel, Dvorak, and others.

Hungry, Tried To Steal Gun To Shoot Rabbits

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Rabbits were scampering around in the back yard of Ernest R. Radtke. Radtke out of work, was hungry. So were his wife and two children. But it is difficult to catch rabbits without a gun, he told Judge Edgar A. Jonas, who listened to his story when arraigned for making a fruitless effort to steal a gun from a department store. Judge Jonas gave him his freedom on probation.

ARCANE DIRECTORS TO MEET TUESDAY

Directors of the Arcade Co-operative Association will meet Tuesday for the purpose of making definite plans for a big get-together meeting of all the tenants of the Arcade building, sometime after the middle of November. The board will also discuss plans for Christmas decorations for the building, which in the past have made it one of the show places of the city during the Christmas season, as well as, other sales and promotion plans.

Girl's Pretty, Honest Face Wins Judicial Leniency

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Mayme Rothacker, 21, a stenographer, was free today on what might call her face value. "This girl," said Policeman Henry Dricker, when she was arraigned for speeding before Magistrate Harry H. Porter and lacked the necessary $10 bail, "has an honest face." "Not only that," amended the magistrate, "it is a pretty face. A face like that is bail enough for me."

TWO JUNIOR HIGHS TO HEAR AVON GROUP

"Romeo and Juliet" and "The Merchant of Venice" will be presented by the Avon Players at local junior high schools during the latter part of this week, under patronage of the school parent-teacher association, it was announced Saturday.

"The Merchant of Venice," with Joseph Selman as "Shylock," will be given at 8:15 o'clock Thursday night at O'Keefe Junior High. "Romeo and Juliet" will be presented at the same hour Friday night at Bass Junior High, and "The Merchant of Venice" Saturday night at Bass Junior High.

Hunting Dog Discovers $3,000 of Stolen Money

SHELBYVILLE, Ky., Nov. 1.—(AP)—A hunting dog today was responsible for the recovery of more than $3,000, part of the sum stolen from the Leipsic Bank of Leipsic, Ind., October 23.

George Bryant, farmer, hunting in the woods near here, followed his dog under a culvert. The dog's barking aroused Bryant's curiosity and after an investigation he found five steel safe deposit boxes containing $3,200 in bonds and valuable papers.

WOMEN PROTEST NIGHT WORK BAN

Party Leaders Object to Action of Cotton Textile Leaders.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Some plain talk against limiting production in textile mills by throwing women out of night work and keeping men on the job has been spoken by leaders of the national women's party to officials of the Cotton Textile Institute.

Headquarters of the party disclosed today that Mrs. Harvey Wiley, widow of the pure food pioneer, flew to New York with three other members of the party to make the protest to George A. Sloan, president, and Walker D. Hines, chairman of the board of the cotton institute.

"Mr. Hines admitted first," said the women, "that the action taken throwing women out of night work jobs, was in order to limit production." Replying, Mrs. Wiley said, "No matter how unhygienic the conditions of work may be, nothing injures the health and the morals more than starvation."

Mrs. Elizabeth Selden Rogers and Mrs. Jane Norman Smith, of New York, and Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, of Delaware, members of the party's national council, joined in the protest. Mrs. Wiley is chairman of the party.

SOVIETS ARREST 24 FOR REVOLT

MOSCOW, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Twenty-four persons were arrested by the secret police today and charged with counter-revolutionary activities in the economic field. Most of them were well-known employees of the state co-operative stores in Moscow.

They were accused of illegally obtaining goods from the stores and disposing of them to private traders. The secret police assert that all confessed participating in a plot to undermine the co-operative system.

Marion Claire, Opera Star, RASKOB DENIES Opens Music Season Tuesday SELLING SHORT

Marion Claire, soprano of the Chicago Opera Company, and Henry Weber, conductor-pianist, who will appear Tuesday night at the Wesley Memorial auditorium, in the 1930-31 series of concerts given by the Civic Music Association.

Marion Claire, soprano, assisted by Henry Weber, conductor-pianist, will appear in concert at Wesley Memorial auditorium at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night as the first attraction of the 1930-1931 series given by the Civic Music Association under the sponsorship of the Atlanta Music Club.

Miss Claire, a native of Chicago, has had an unusual career. As a child she expected to make the violin her life work and appeared as a child prodigy with this instrument when she was only six years old. At ten she played a difficult violin concerto at Ravinia Park and continued with brilliant success until she was 21.

However, her vocal gifts were so great, as demonstrated in several school operettas, that her teachers urged her to go to Italy for voice culture. In Europe she studied under some of the greatest teachers. She has contracts with two of the world's greatest opera organizations, the Chicago Civic Opera and the famous Staatsoper in Berlin.

There will be no box office sale of tickets for the Claire-Weber recital, admission being limited to holders of membership cards in the Civic Music Association. Blue membership cards admit adults and red cards admit children.

Good Sewers 'Good Business,'
City Health Chief Declares

Kennedy Says That One Epidemic Would Cost Many Times the $13,000,000 Total Proposed.

Sewer improvements and sanitation, coupled with an adequate public health program, Saturday were put on a "business basis" by Dr. John Kennedy, city health officer, in commenting on an address delivered Friday by Dr. Louis I. Dublin, statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, before the session of the American Public Health Association at Fort Worth.

Pointing to the need for immediate action to prevent spread of disease, Dr. Kennedy declared that Dr. Dublin and every other outstanding authority of the nation recognizes the paramount need for prevention.

He estimated that one epidemic would cost Atlantans and those living in its vicinity many times more in actual money than the estimated $13,000,000 required to make all the improvements recommended by Whitman, Requa and Smith in the recently-completed sanitary survey of the area.

"Health officials know, perhaps as no others do, the vast amount of money spent to combat disease after it begins spreading," Dr. Kennedy declared. "It is many times cheaper, saves lost time from work, and therefore, is a great economy, to prevent sickness."

Real Service Performed.
"Councilman Paul Carpenter and others who are urging that immediate steps be taken to provide the recommendations of the survey are performing a service for the community in guaranteed health."

"No one will deny that open sewers and polluted streams are a menace. This matter of public health is a business matter and should be so considered. It is of great economical importance not only to the individual but to the community. Public health as Dr. Dublin points out is a sound investment."

"To us who have to fight disease, its spread and to prevent it, sewers and disposals are important matters. It is an important matter to every citizen in Atlanta and to those living within a radius of many miles."

In his address, Dr. Dublin stated that health matters were first undertaken as a preventive of disease and later treated from an aesthetic viewpoint.

Protection of Citizens.
He said courts of the land are taking the attitude that citizens should be protected, and cited several cases in which damages have been awarded individuals against private companies and against cities from the spread of typhoid fever and other maladies.

Thirty years ago, the speaker said, the death rate throughout the country was 17.6 per cent per 1,000 persons annually. It was reduced to 12.8 per cent in 1928 and will be appreciably lower this year, according to his estimate.

In 1901 the mean length of life was 47 years for males and 50 for females. In 1927 the span of life had been increased to 57.9 and 61, respectively.

Less than $1 per capita is spent in all public health work throughout the country, according to a survey of the American Public Health Association. It is estimated that the sewer improvements regarded as vital necessities in combating disease in and near Atlanta would cost 32 cents per capita for the 65 years for which they are planned.

G. O. P. Campaign Poster
Blames Stock Collapse on Democrat.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A republican campaign poster asking "who caused the stock market crash?" aroused Chairman Raskob of the democratic national committee today to a charge that, by inference, he was being libelled.

The poster, also asked "Did Raskob sell short?"

In a statement through democratic headquarters here Raskob said the poster conveyed "the inference that I have by short selling in the market deliberately influenced the depression of the market."

"I wish to notify the newspapers," he said, "that I regard this as a libelous utterance and must hold any agency that publishes it responsible."

"As a matter of fact, not only did I not sell short in the market that suffered a collapse after almost every optimistic prophecy by President Hoover and his executive department but never at any time since the advent of the present administration, which, of course, embraces the whole of the Hoover panic from the crash of a year ago to this hour, did I either personally or through agents, either directly or indirectly sell short even a single share of stock or any commodity."

"I am moved to issue this warning because the charge transcends the limitations of politics and is a direct assault on my business integrity and intelligence."

G. O. P. BLAMES STOCK
COLLAPSE ON RASKOB

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The republican national committee has circulated a full page poster throughout the country entitled "Who caused the stock market crash?" and following this with a subtitle: "Read John J. Raskob's statement."

The statement by Mr. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, was an interview given Samuel Crowther and published in the "Ladies' Home Journal" in August, 1929. The heading of the magazine article was "Everybody ought to be rich."

Another question asked on the republican poster is, "Did Raskob sell short?" The poster's answer to this is: "Mr. Raskob, as chairman of the democratic national committee and as an operator in the stock market, is in a position to wield a tremendous influence."

After quoting from Mr. Raskob's interview on the growth in value of stocks, the republican poster quotes from an interview with Secretary Mellon in March, 1929, urging investment in bonds.

Senator Robinson, republican of Indiana, has blamed Mr. Raskob for the stock market crash in public speeches during the campaign, but the national republican organization had never before made the same claim.

Queen Ioanna
Captures Hearts
Of All Bulgaria

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Bulgaria's youngest generation is a little disappointed in the lovely Ioanna whom King Boris has brought home to reign as his queen.

For one thing, she didn't wear a crown and ermine robes today as she stood on a palace balcony beside the handsome Boris while 20,000 school children marched by, cheering and tossing bouquets at the royal pair.

She was more like a big sister, flashing a tender smile at the interest of her subjects who came close to hand their flowers over the balcony, than like a queen whom one sees only in the movies.

But Ioanna won the hearts of more mature Bulgars in this day's celebration. She smiled for two hours with the sun in her eyes, and she took it down, and she took ill-aimed bouquets on the chin like a veteran.

Her subjects were almost lyrical in their praise tonight and in every quarter of the city it was evident that her tender sympathy for the children today held rich promise of her lifelong popularity in the future.

This morning the queen attended the All Saints' Day mass in the private Catholic chapel of the palace and later went with her husband to the orthodox mass in the cathedral in honor of the national saint-hero, Ivan Rilsky.

Their arrival was timed to avoid the crowd which had gathered in expectation of an earlier arrival.

Ioanna, it appeared, has been granted a special ecclesiastical dispensation permitting her to attend ceremonies of the orthodox church when they have national Bulgarian significance so that her absence on such occasions might not be misconstrued.

BRITISH CITY VOTE HURTS LABORITES

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The labor party sustained sweeping losses in the municipal elections today in the provinces, where one-third of the councils were elected.

In Derby, Sheffield, Leeds and other industrial centers the labor defeats were outstanding. The conservatives gained.

Late tonight the conservatives had gained 77 council seats and lost 9, the laborites had won nine and lost 16 and the laborites had won 20 and lost 88. Independents won 19 and lost 20.

EMORY JUNIOR CLUBS IN JOINT PROGRAM

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 1.—The Emory Dramatic Society and the Emory Junior College Glee Club will appear in a joint program here on the evening of November 6.

The dramatic society will present "El Indiano," a Spanish drama which is full of possibilities for development by college students. In the cast of characters several members of the faculty of Emory will appear with the students.

On the same evening the Emory Junior Glee Club, which is under the direction of James Dasher, will make its first appearance in this city during the season. The personnel of the 1930-1931 glee club includes the following: Basses, William Stokes, Lamar Tillman, Louis Girardin, E. N. Clark; baritone, William Shaw, William Long, John Johnson, Chess Abernethy; second tenors, Hartman Kager, Jack Stroud, H. L. Lewis, Frank Bracewell, Seward Robinson; first tenors, Albert Turner, Curtis Jackson, John T. West.

Following its public appearance in Valdosta the glee club will appear next in a program before the South Georgia Methodist conference at its meeting in Thomasville this month.

Legion Auxiliary To Sell Poppies on Armistice Day

Assuring the appearance on streets of virtually every city and the larger towns in Georgia, of the scarlet poppy, Mrs. Gordon G. Singleton, poppy chairman of the department of Georgia, American Legion, is shown above as she turns over to the express company a shipment of 12,000 of the artificial red flowers of Flanders, which will be worn Armistice Day as a memento of the sacrifice of the veterans of the World War. On Tuesday Atlantans will find scores of poppy saleswomen on downtown corners ready to pin one of these mementoes on their lapels.

The poppy that blows in Flanders fields will have its inanimate, yet glowing replica on the streets of Atlanta Armistice Day, November 11, when scores of Atlanta women, under the auspices of the women's auxiliary of the American Legion, will endeavor to see that every citizen wears one in his lapel or on his coat.

Proceeds of the sale of the Flanders poppy will go toward relief of thousands of disabled veterans of the World War, without employment and many others waiting sufficient rehabilitation to enable them to take up once again the tasks left off when the call to war was sounded in 1917.

The wearing of the poppy, it is pointed out by those in charge of the campaign, is the individual act of tribute to the war dead. It is something that every living American can do.

The auxiliary has fixed no certain price for the little artificial flowers—thousands of them made by the hands of a disabled and incapacitated veteran of that mighty conflict of scarcely more than a decade ago.

"The poppy sale," Mrs. Gordon G. Singleton, chairman of the campaign, pointed out, "will give the people of Atlanta an opportunity to do something for these men and their families. Every penny of the money which is dropped into the boxes of the saleswomen will be used by the legion to ease the distress of the disabled veterans and the dependents of the dead and disabled. All the money will be expended right here in our own city and will enable our Legionnaires to continue the wonderful relief work they are doing for another year."

5 More Telegraphers
Honored by Officials

Five Western Union Morse operators, "old-timers" who have seen the telegraph emerge from the old pen-and-ink, dot-and-dash era into the typewriter stage, and later into the modern multiplex and simplex methods, were honored Friday afternoon by executives, supervisors, and fellow operators at a farewell party given to them on the eve of their retirement.

The five operators are Mrs. Maggie A. Welsh, Mrs. June Galliard, Mrs. Lina Connell, Miss Carrie Roberts and W. S. Stevens, all of whom have served at the local office for the past 35 to 40 years. Refreshments were served to the guests and gifts were distributed to the retiring operators.

RUTH HANNA NAMED DEFENDANT IN SUIT

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Ruth Hanna McCormick, republican senatorial nominee, was made defendant today in a $25,000 damage suit instituted by a private investigator as an aftermath of her "shadowing" of Senator Gerald B. Nye, chairman of the senate committee which investigated her primary campaign expenditures.

George L. Cole, the petitioner, alleged he was falsely imprisoned and arraigned by W. C. Dannenberg, head of a detective agency employed by Mrs. McCormick to investigate Senator Nye. Dannenberg was made a co-defendant in the suit, filed in superior court.

Cole's attorney said his client was taken to Dannenberg's apartment and held there while statements were forced from him.

Sheriff Dies.

EDINBURG, Texas, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A. Y. Baker, sheriff of Hidalgo county, and for many years a political leader in the Rio Grande valley, died of apoplexy at his home here today.

Singleton, chairman of the campaign, pointed out, "will give the people of Atlanta an opportunity to do something for these men and their families. Every penny of the money which is dropped into the boxes of the saleswomen will be used by the legion to ease the distress of the disabled veterans and the dependents of the dead and disabled. All the money will be expended right here in our own city and will enable our Legionnaires to continue the wonderful relief work they are doing for another year."

CHICAGO POLICE FORCE
RAPPED BY GRAND JURY

Alliance Between Police,
Politics and Crime Hit in Report.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The alleged alliance of police, politics and crime brought new grand jury attacks on law enforcing authorities today.

The October grand jury, in its final report, said that "instead of being a purely crime detecting and apprehending agency, the police force has been through the history of our city, the adjunct of whatever political faction happens to be in power."

"For many years Chicago has tolerated vice," continued the report, "and now the underworld and vice have it by the throat. For all this the public is responsible, for the public has allowed it to exist."

The scandal occasioned by the finding of a list compiled in the detective bureau naming gangsters scheduled to be arrested for vagrancy under the pillow of a Capone lieutenant "confirms beyond a reasonable doubt the general belief that there exists an alliance between some members of the police department and leaders of organized crime," the grand jurors added.

"Where Good Furniture Is Not Expensive"

State Votes on Amendments, County on Board Tuesday

Interest in Fulton County on Fight Against Gilbert, Etheridge and Hendrix.

Fulton county will join voters of Georgia Tuesday in ratification of democratic selections for senator and state officers and will pass on 13 proposed amendments to the Georgia constitution in the general election.

For the first time in many years, democratic nominees are opposed by independent in the election Tuesday, and this race is expected to enliven the voting.

29,000 Voters Qualified.
A total of approximately 29,000 are qualified to cast ballots in the 38 boxes scattered throughout the county, and predictions were that a comparatively large number will avail themselves of the opportunity.

Democratic party nominees are P. S. Etheridge, Walter C. Hendrix and Dr. William L. Gilbert, incumbents, renominated in the March 19 primary, opposed by Dr. Dan Griffin and Alex. Whitely, two of the three defeated white primary candidates, and R. F. Thompson, a third entrant on their ticket. W. M. Puckett and W. H. Newman also are independent entrants opposing the nominees.

In the eighth district Congressman Charles H. Brand is opposed by W. M. Phillips, independent, while in the 11th congressional district Congressman William C. Lanford, democratic nominee, is opposed by Dr. H. J. Caswell, a republican.

Another interesting race is for the legislative post from Fayette county, where J. W. Culpepper, declared the nominee, is opposed by J. W. Harris, editor of a Fayetteville newspaper. Mr. Harris attempted to have his name placed on the ballot as the nominee and failed.

Polls in Atlanta, East Point, College Park and Hapeville open at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning and close at 6 o'clock Tuesday night, while all others open at 8 o'clock in the morning and close at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

There are 13 proposed amendments to the state constitution on which all voters of the entire state will ballot in addition to the regular state nominees named in the primary.

Senator William J. Harris, Governor-designate Richard B. Russell, all state house officials, Congressman Robert Ranspock, of the fifth Georgia district; all other Georgia congressmen, and all local officials throughout the state who were nominated in the primaries are unopposed for the most part.

Many Charges Flung.
The independent opposition in Fulton county has been concerned by a series of charges and counter charges, and the democratic committee has rushed to the defense of the nominees.

W. W. Gaines, chairman of the Fulton county board of registrars, Saturday issued the following statement regarding the qualification for balloting in Tuesday's election.

"For the first time in years we are to have the unusual thing of a contest at the general state election in November.

"It is probable that people may think that they may now pay their taxes, register and qualify themselves to vote next Tuesday. But this is not true. The registration books for next Tuesday's election closed May 5. That is the requirement of the constitution of the state—that taxes, except taxes for 1930, must be paid six months before the November election. The same voters lists that were made up following May 5, that that were used in the September state primary election, will be used next Tuesday. No names can be added to them."

Only one of the proposed amendments is of state-wide interest, to levy

Wife Is Slain by Mate, Ired by Halloween
TULSA, Okla., Nov. 1.—(AP)—When his 18-year-old wife remonstrated with him after he had fired into the air to frighten Halloween pranksters outside their home in Sand Springs, Ray Edward Wooten, 20, cotton mill worker, shot her near the heart. She died shortly afterward.

A tax on incomes, the others being purely local matters.

Following are the others:
Authorizing Fulton county to establish sewerage, water and fire prevention systems and parks.

Permitting Fulton county to levy taxes to pay pensions to county officers and employees.

Authorizing Stephens county to incur a bonded indebtedness for hospital purposes.

Authorizing Washington county to make temporary loans.

Authorizing general assembly to exempt from taxation power projects contracting flood control for the city of West Point.

Authorizing legislature to grant to the counties of Glynn, Fulton, Chatham, Bibb, Barrow and Colquitt authority to pass laws and ordinances and ratifying the acts of the legislature heretofore passed, undertaken to grant such authorities to such counties.

Authorizing Pierce county to levy extra tax for high school purposes.

Authorizing Glynn and McIntosh counties to establish and administer within the bounds of their respective counties districts for special sanitation, fire protection, police protection, or building and improving roads, and for this purpose to levy taxes upon the taxable property of said respective districts, to issue bonds of such districts upon a vote of qualified voters of such districts, and to levy assessments against and collect service charges from the property abutting upon or served by the utilities established or provided pursuant thereto.

Providing for additional compensation to be paid by Richmond county to the judges of the superior courts of the Augusta circuit.

Allowing city of Lakeland to acquire, own, operate, sell, and otherwise handle the Lakeland railway and other transportation property, to incur an indebtedness therefor, and provide for the retiring thereof.

Allowing city of Cornelia to increase its bonded indebtedness for an electric system.

Allowing city of Elberton to increase its bonded indebtedness for an electric system.

Governor-designate Russell, R. C. Norman, state commissioner, the Georgia Tax Revision Association, and others, have opposed the proposed amendment permitting the levy of the income tax, and opposition was reported developing in other quarters.

UNKNOWN MAN FOUND MURDERED
FORT MYERS, Fla., Nov. 1.—(AP)—A body of an unidentified man about 50 years old, was found near the Tamiami trail outside of Estero, 25 miles south of here today by road workers. A coroner's jury returned a verdict that the man had been murdered by a blow from a blunt instrument on the head from the hand of an unknown party.

No mark of identification was found on the body, which was clad only in a shirt and trousers. A ruby ring was on the right hand.

A packet of safety matches, bearing the name of Harry K. Ellis, Miami filling station operator, was found in a pocket.

A coroner's jury expressed the belief the man had been dead about ten days.

The man was about 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighed approximately 145 pounds. The temples were slightly gray.

KENTUCKY ALUMNI DIE IN AUTO CRASH
LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Three of a party of five University of Kentucky alumni were dead today as a result of an automobile accident which occurred while they were on their way to Lexington yesterday to attend the University of Alabama football game.

The dead are Wendell Smith, 24, and Hagan Smith, 23, cousins, and Hamilton, 25. The other two occupants of the automobile, Hiram Stumpers, 25, and William Smith, 28, a cousin of the dead men, were injured. The homes of all are at Hindman, Ky.

BRITAIN NOT TO BUILD MORE AIRSHIPS SOON
LONDON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Whatever the outcome of the inquiry into the disaster of the giant airship R-101, Great Britain will not build any more airships for a long time to come.

The Howden airship station where the Airship Guarantee Company built the R-100, a visitor to Canada in August, is closing down at the end of November. Sir Dennistoun Burney, head of the company, explained the station was closing because the company had no orders for building and he had no idea when, if ever, it would be reopened.

The R-100 is at present laid up and proposed alterations and enlargements have been indefinitely postponed.

$12,000,000 RAILROAD BRIDGE IS DEDICATED
MARTINEZ, Cal., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The historic old train ferry Solano carried its last train from Port Costa to Benicia today as the Southern Pacific's $12,000,000 railroad bridge across Suisun bay was formally dedicated.

With the bridge opening, the Solano ended 51 years of service to be scrapped with her sister ferry, the Contra Costa.

The bridge removes the last physical barrier to railroad travel north and east from the San Francisco bay region.

ALFRED WHITWORTH IS KILLED BY TRAIN
Alfred H. Whitworth, 38, trainman, of 23 Holmes street, formerly of Los Angeles, was accidentally killed late Friday night at Wellington, Ala., in the yards of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, of which he had been an employee for the past 15 years. The body will be brought to Atlanta for funeral services and interment.

He is survived by his widow and a 15-year-old son.

MAJOR PARTIES FILE MORE RACE EXPENSES

Republicans and Democrats Report Supplemental Expenditures.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Eleventh-hour reports on contributions and expenditures were filed with the clerk of the house today by republican and democratic committees.

The republican national committee reported collections of $103,375 and expenditures of $104,882 between October 21 and 30. It also reported contributions of $684,979 and expenditures of $678,056 since January 1.

The democratic national committee reported contributions of $9,124 and expenditures of $10,551 from October 22 to October 30. Bernard Harbach, of New York, gave $3,000; Jesse Jones, Houston, $1,000, and J. L. Schwartz, of New York, $5,000.

Secretary Mellon and his brother, R. B. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, were the heaviest individual contributors to the republicans. They gave $25,000 between them. Senator Kean, of New Jersey, gave $5,000 and his colleague, Senator Baird, $2,500. George S. Goetz, Chicago banker, contributed $10,000.

Others included William Zeigler, Jr., of New York, $1,000; Harvey Firestone, Akron, $2,500; Roger W. Straus, New York, $1,000; Ben Meyer, Los Angeles, $2,500; Frederic Sackett, ambassador to Germany, $2,000; Edward F. Hutton, New York, $5,000.

The democratic committee reported that it had spent $8,000 in Wyoming and $500 to aid Senator Walsh in Montana. In addition, $625 was sent to democratic workers in Montana. The committee sent $1,000 to South Dakota; $1,000 to Minnesota; $2,000 to Kentucky, and $1,500 to New Mexico.

GEORGE MAY JOIN WALES FOR TRIP
LONDON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The Prince of Wales may take his youngest brother, Prince George, along with him on his tour of South America next year, it is reported.

When it became known that both are studying Spanish in preparation for the trip.

The heir apparent already has some acquaintance with the language but he is perfecting his knowledge of it. His plans are still indefinite but it is believed that he may start the journey about January 17, and that he will be present for the opening of the British exhibition at Buenos Aires on March 14. After that it is likely that he will visit several other Argentine cities to renew the friendship he made during his tour of five years ago.

TWO U. S. PRISONERS ARE REFUSED WRITS
Two federal prisoners Saturday were remanded to government custody by Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley in declining to grant writs of habeas corpus.

W. J. Harrington was turned back into custody of immigration officers, who held an order for his deportation to Canada following sentence of a term in the federal penitentiary here on a motor vehicle theft act charge.

Harrington claimed he was an American citizen. Ray Crowder was denied the writ to effect his release from the penitentiary, where he is serving a year and six months on a charge of passing a forged government check in Massachusetts.

Crowder claimed he was discharged from two years' probation and later the sentence was revoked and he was ordered to serve time in the penitentiary. Judge Sibley held that imposition of the sentence was within the power of the sentencing court.

316 ASK CLEMENCY OF FLORIDA BOARD
TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Eight hundred and sixteen applications for clemency await disposition at the semi-annual meeting of the Florida state board of pardons which will meet here Monday.

State convicts serving sentences ranging from life to five years are on down the list will appeal to Governor Doyle E. Carlton and other members of the pardon board for clemency. Several women prisoners will present pleas. Florida's oldest prisoner, B. F. Lloyd, 86, serving a year and a day from Hillsborough county, on a charge of assault with intent to murder, will seek a pardon.

PECAN GROWERS ORGANIZE IN FLORIDA
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The Florida Pecan Growers' Association was organized here today at a meeting held in the offices of the Florida state marketing bureau.

Officials elected were: H. H. Simmons, president; Dr. S. A. Morris, vice president; and S. Bryan Jennings, secretary-treasurer, all of Jacksonville. Temporary offices will be in Jacksonville. The organization will be affiliated with the National Pecan Marketing Association.

Pecans will be concentrated at Albany, Ga., where they will be graded and processed and packed for shipment.

MEMPHIS POLICE SAVE NEGRO FROM LYNCHERS
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 1.—(AP)—After his automobile had dragged a white woman two blocks, inflicting serious injuries, Jim Jones, negro, was pulled from the car and threatened with lynching by a crowd of witnesses late today.

Mrs. Iva Triplett, 25, was struck by the negro's car at a street intersection when she stopped from curbing with an armload of groceries. Instead of stopping, the driver of the car speeded up, police said, and dragged her two blocks.

Timely arrival of police saved the negro from the incensed crowd.

Mrs. Triplett is seriously injured at a local hospital.

Disguised as Hunters, Dry Agents Nab Still
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Today was the opening of the hunting season and prohibition agents, donning Nimrodian garb, went hunting—sensibly for ducks, but really for liquor stills. They got the latter.

Three agents, wearing the habiliments of sportsmen, the city early today for the duck marshes, encountered Anthony Sabarino in the swamps below the city near Lake Pontchartrain, and asked him if he had shot anything.

"No," he was quoted as replying. "I'm not interested in ducks. I'm running a still."

"Well, we are interested in stills," the agents remarked, and arrested him.

Critic of British Husbands Is Wed To London Banker

ABBINGER, Surrey, England, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Miss Rebecca West, one of England's foremost novelists, was married here this afternoon to Henry Maxwell Andrews, a London banker.

England enjoyed this wedding, recalling that not so long ago Rebecca West had referred to the average British husband as "a perfect nuisance," and this, she wrote in a critical article, was an opinion shared by the whole status of "domesticated upper and middle-class Englishwomen."

On the other hand, she wrote, it is especially upon demand that intellectual women stand aside while their sweet, clinging sisters march to the altar with the flower of British manhood.

"Why," she demanded, "should the nation be denied enrichment of its people through motherhood of its choice stock?"

OETGEN ORDERED HELD ON CHARGE OF FRAUD
E. O. Oetgen Saturday was held for a temporary bond of $1,000 pending a hearing before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith on charges of using the mails to defraud by ordering poultry under the name of the Country Store and failing to pay for the chickens. Postoffice inspectors alleged that Oetgen defrauded W. L. Waters, of Alexander City, Ala.; H. M. Franklin, W. M. Egan Grocery Company, of Murphy, N. C.; P. E. Rhodes, of Baldwin, and John Runkin, all of whom, the government charges, were not paid for chickens sent Oetgen.

The democratic committee reported that it had spent $8,000 in Wyoming and $500 to aid Senator Walsh in Montana. In addition, $625 was sent to democratic workers in Montana. The committee sent $1,000 to South Dakota; $1,000 to Minnesota; $2,000 to Kentucky, and $1,500 to New Mexico.

GRAND JURY ACTION SCORED BY MCLARTY

Fact Finders' Head Disagrees on Subject of "Law Violation."

Robert P. McLarty, chairman of the fact finders' commission and law partner of Hooper, Alexander, Saturday took sharp issue with the Fulton county grand jury presentments Friday, which gave a clean bill of health to Fulton county commissioners in so far as a breach of the law was concerned, but which scored Commissioner Walter B. Stewart for participation in certain real estate transactions in which roads were constructed at public expense.

Excerpts from Mr. McLarty's statement follow:

"I was rather stunned to read in today's Constitution that portion of the grand jury's presentments which read as follows:

"For a long time organizations, new sheets, public meetings and individuals have been active in charging our county commissioners with illegal conduct and wrongdoing. The result of an inquiry as searching as we know how to make has uncovered no criminal act, nor has any sort of evidence of bribery or legal wrongdoing been presented. We deplore the continued circulation of incomplete and distorted statements of wrongdoing and earnestly beg these parties to either present actual and sufficient evidence to the solicitor or desist from statements that are an injury to the county."

"Was First Witness.
"I am the individual who has been most active in trying to bring about a probe of county affairs and was the first witness called before the grand jury last Monday a week ago at the beginning of their probe.

"In the Ridgeland Park transaction the following facts were developed before the grand jury:

"On January 11 seventeen lots were deeded to Southern Builders, Inc., of which Commissioner Stewart was president, for $10 and other valuable consideration. The $10 was not paid in a single instance. The other consideration was claimed to be notes given by the company secured only by the property deeded.

"The notes given amounted to only a fraction of the value of the lots. On page 150 of Deed Book 1226 immediately following the record of these deeds, however, a contract appears which recites that it was given in consideration of and part of the purchase price of those deeds. One clause in this contract reads as follows: 'It is contemplated and expected that Fulton county will dig and fill the necessary ditches without compensation, in which event party of the first part hereby agrees to execute and deliver a tapping permit to said main without any charge whatsoever.'

"Subdivision Development.
"That on January 11, the date of the aforesaid deeds, the subdivision was vacant farm land, without roads or paths; that on February 6 the minutes of the county commissioners show that Commissioner Stewart moved to grade one road (Canterell) in this vacant tract.

"That in March last, within 60 days from the date of the deeds, three roads were graded and paved at an expense of $20,716, according to Bub Clark's own figures. This did not include the cost of digging and back-

Trapped Thieves Kill Eight Men and Child

LUCENA, Tayabas Province, P. I., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Eight men and a child were shot and killed here today by two men caught in the act of stealing.

Authorities said the men ran amuck when apprehended. One of the men was captured and placed under arrest, but the other escaped.

filling the ditches for the water mains; that all of this work except the grading of one road, was ordered by Commissioner Stewart as chairman of the public works committee without a scratch appearing upon the minutes of the county commissioners authorizing anything but the grading of one road. All of these roads were paved nearly nine months before they were declared public roads by the county commissioners, which took place on December 5 following.

Has Spent $100.
"Notwithstanding the false rumors which have been circulated by the friends of the wrongdoers, I state now that I have never received one cent for my services, have never been promised anything, and would not accept any if proffered, but, on the contrary, have spent nearly $400 of my own money in this investigation, in which I am acting solely as a citizen and for the benefit of the public morals and the public interest.

"As long as this investigation is conducted by a body in which there are members involved in these transactions, and as long as Mr. Boykin, who has repeatedly expressed himself as bitterly opposed to the investigation, can control the scope of it, witnesses are not going to appear voluntarily to give testimony which will be twisted around, and whose only accomplishment will be to get for the undying animosity of those involved in the illegal transactions."

"That in March last, within 60 days from the date of the deeds, three roads were graded and paved at an expense of $20,716, according to Bub Clark's own figures. This did not include the cost of digging and back-

WILEY MOORE TO SPEAK AT DUBLIN THURSDAY

State Chamber President Will Talk on Pushing Tourist Trade.

Wiley L. Moore, president of the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce, will speak at Dublin on November 6 and at Balbridge on November 7 in the interest of developing a tourist business for Georgia, the chamber announced Saturday.

The chamber said that Mr. Moore was visiting every section of the state in the interest of promoting interest at home in the plan for advertising Georgia charms as a tourist center to the people of the country.

It was announced that many inquiries already have been received by the state organization from tourists in all sections of the country, expressing interest in Georgia as a tourist state. Mr. Moore today urged all boards of trade, civic clubs, hotels, railroads and representatives of various cities and sections to supply the state-chamber of commerce here with detailed information about their localities for use in answering inquiries.

POPE PIUS CONSIDERS CALL FOR CONSISTORY
ROME, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Giornale D'Italia said today that Pope Pius probably would call a consistory for between December 13 and December 20 to create new cardinals.

FARMER TELLS HOW HE GOT RID OF PILES

Suffered 20 Years and Tried Everything. Couldn't Work

SIMPLE HOME REMEDY WORKED LIKE MAGIC

"I suffered with piles for twenty years and could not get relief until I read in the paper about these Colace Pile Pills you take internally. They are marvelous," enthusiastically declared W. D. Fox, a well-known farmer of Mt. Jackson, Virginia.

"My stomach felt miserable and the piles would come down so badly they felt big as my fist and hurt so bad I could not sit down or walk, but thanks to Colace Pile Pills, I'm free at last of that awful trouble. I could believe that pills you advertised at meal time would help piles in such a short time but, after the first two doses I could see I was getting better. I'll gladly tell anybody what they did for me if they write and you can use my name all you want to," continued this man. Thousands of others say the same. No one should suffer another day or bother with nasty salves or suppositories. Doctors endorse this new internal way. Harmless and quick. If reader desires to try Colace Pile Pills, buy a bottle of local druggist, or send five cents to Colace Chemical Co., Brentwood, Md., for regular bottle, full directions, postage paid, by return mail. Results guaranteed or money back by this nationally known concern.—(adv.)
